7-hour chase, hostages safe

● More stories, pictures on Page 17

By BRUCE LOWTHER
Colonist Reporter

A quiet two-week search for a young William Head fugitive was transformed Tuesday into a seven-hour Greater Victoria drama with a car chase, exchange of gunfire, abduction of hostages, massive manhunt — and a happy ending.

A mother and her young daugher were severly shaken and many others were in danger but only one person received as much as minor injuries in a harrowing day for more than 50 Victoria, Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt policemen and RCMP as well as numerous civilians.

As the day ended, Victoria police were studying possible abduction and robbery charges against Daniel Bradley Cain, 19, who will appear this morning in Victoria Provincial Court on a Colwood RCMP charge of escape and being unlawfully at large.

At the same time, 27-year-old Mrs. Diane Smith of 1116 Leonard in the Fairfield area and her daugher Emily, 3, was recovering from the most danger-filled part of the day. And taxi driver Ron Colbert, 62, of 3305 Linwood, had gone back to routine work.

It was in Colbert's Blue Bird taxi that Cain was arrested about 4:45 p.m. at the foot of Raynor in Victoria West — only minutes after Victoria detective Constable Douglas Richardson had issued an emotion-packed appeal to Cain to give himself up.

One sentence in the appeal gave much of the background to a day unrivalled in tension in Victoria since a late-September day in 1970 when another young man robbed a bank, shot two Victoria policemen, and took hostages on his way up the Saanich peninsula and on to the U.S. by boat.

Said Richardson: "I want you to know, Danny, since you left William Head we've talked to most of your friends and your family and we all agree: turn yourself in and we'll have medical treatment for you."

Cain was sentenced late in 1974 in Victoria to two years for break-ins and thefts and was due for release in 1976. But on the night of March 22, police said, he left the William Head institution in Metchosin.

Staff-Sgt. Angus Stewart, acting head of the Victoria police detective division, said Tuesday Cain was known as a drugs user before his sentence. Other sources said police had been seeking Cain for questioning about some of 11 small-business holdups in Victoria and Saanich since March 22.

At 10 a.m. Tuesday, Oak Bay Constable Robert Faith was off duty and shopping in Gordon's Sporting Goods, 1030 Hillside, when he saw a youth who looked like Cain buying a box of shotgun shells.

Faith followed the youth, saw him get into a car parked nearby and got the licence number. He wasn't able to get to his own car to follow but immediately phoned the number to Victoria headquarters.

The car had been stolen Monday night in Esquimalt, not far from the Victoria West area where the suspect was arrested.

At about 10:55 a.m., Victoria Constables Peter Talavs and Rick Mitchell saw the car going south on Douglas near Bay. A chase at speeds of up to 65 miles an hour began on Bay and continued on Cal-

150 B.C. children: No takers

By JIM HUME
Colonist Reporter

More than a thousand British Columbians have offered homes to Vietnam war orphans, but so far there are no adoption offers for 150 handicapped B.C. children.

Human Resources Minister Norman Levi made that announcement Tuesday as he pledged to continue to extend assistance but appealed for a cooling down of emotions.

Levi said it must always be remembered that "children are part of a family unit and only as a very last resort should they be removed from that family."

Levi reminded British Columbians that while their response to the plight of Indochinese war victims had been overwhelming "there are still 150 B.C. children, many of whom have severe handicaps, who are available for adoption by parents who feel they can cope with the extremely arduous task of raising these special children."

The minister said it was his hope that of the hundreds of families now offering homes to help children from overseas "there are some who will

It's Oscar II for sequel Godfather

Godfather II was the grand winner of 1974 films, scoring not only as best picture, but for direction, writing, supporting actor and original dramatic score.

It was the first time that a sequel to an Oscar-winning film (1972) had itself gone on to win Hollywood's top award.

Its producer-director-writer Francis Ford Coppola won three of the Oscars, and his father, Carmine Coppola, was awarded an Oscar for his score.

Art Carney, the retired teacher on a cross-country trek with a cat in Harry and Tonto, and Ellen Burstyn, the

'So scared he cried'

Gunman's wild-eyed entry started day's nightmare

By JON FERRY
Colonist Reporter

There are some things it's better that a three-year-old girl doesn't understand.

And one of these is being taken for a ride with mother by a wild, scared, gun-toting individual who bursts into the house while you're playing with your toys and starts yelling and smashing windows.

But that's what happened Tuesday to Emily Smith, a cute, red-haired, blue-eyed bundle of a girl, and her mother, Mrs. Diane Smith, 27, of 1116 Leonard.

But both Mrs. Smith and her husband, Robert, a provincial government clerk, said after the ordeal that Emily — who sat on her desperate abductor's lap during part of a wild car chase across Victoria — remained unaffected by the incident.

"No, she didn't really know what was happening," said a tired, hungry but otherwise unharmed Mrs. Smith as she prepared to eat a well-earned supper.

Shortly after 11 a.m. Emily was playing with her toys and Mrs. Smith was doing her washing when she heard sirens and a ruckus outside.

"I thought it was a fire, I heard sirens," she told the Colonist.

Just then a wild-looking young man toting a gun burst into the Smiths' kitchen and took mother and daughter hostage, yelling to police outside he'd kill both if need be.

Sadie, the Smiths' four-year-old part-collie was so scared she rushed underneath the livingroom couch.

Mrs. Smith said, sure, she was scared but so was the intruder who "started to cry in the kitchen he was so scared . . . he didn't know what to do."

In his frustration at seeing police guns pointed at every window, he became angry and started smashing pane after pane of glass — and ordered Mrs. Smith and Emily upstairs with him.

Mrs. Smith said she thought the police crowded too closely around the house, terrifying the desperate intruder still further.

"I think they should have backed off a bit more," she said.

Mrs. Smith said her main concern was "trying to be on his side because I didn't want to get hurt; I didn't want Emily to get hurt."

She said the man appeared to be "a nice sort of guy" although scared into desperation.

He said he was thirsty and Mrs. Smith — who didn't realize her mistake till afterwards — offered him some Southern Comfort.

He drank a fifth of a bottle, Smith said.

And Mrs. Smith said she made her second mistake when she told the intruder about her car, a 1968 Austin 1100.

The result was that shortly after noon Mrs. Smith and Emily were bundled into the small, dark green car — and a nightmare chase across town began.

With police cars in its rear mirror, the little Austin, pushed on by its driver, swerved all over the road and Mrs. Smith feared for her life in what she described as the dedonia, Quadra, Balmoral and Cook.

The policemen tried to pull the car over but to no avail.

On Cook near Oxford, the driver of the pursued car leaned out his window and turned around to point what appeared to be a handgun at the police. At Cook and May, the pursued car hit the vehicle of Andrew Modos, 152 Cambridge, giving him minor injuries, and then hit a tree and telephone pole, snapping off the pole.

The driver jumped out and ran east on May, firing one shot toward Mitchell and Talavs. Mitchell fired one shot in return. No one was hurt. The driver disappeared in back yards in the neighborhood.

Inspector Lyle Somers left his post at the Victoria police central phone, where he is replacing a locked-out CUPE member, and joined many detectives and uniform sergeants and constables in the area.

Victoria and RCMP officers took up observation posts in cars at key intersections in the Fairfield area, where some of the recent holdups have occured. Constables started house-to-house searches from Cook and May in several directions.

A shotgun was found in the heavily-damaged stolen car. Residents of the area were warned to stay inside and let no one in. Back at headquarters, Stewart and other officials began working with RCMP, Saanich police and others to arrange for helicopters and tracking dogs.

Somers became suspicious of a house on Leonard where a door had been closed suddenly and sent two men to investigate.

A young man had kicked in the back door of an apartment at 1116 Leonard. Occupant Robert Smith, a provincial civil servant, was at work and his wife Diane and three-year-old daughter Emily were in the basement.

He had taken them hostage at about 11:15. It was just short of 11:30 when the two policemen knocked at the front door.

Said Stewart: "When they went to the door, she was obviously nervous and took some time to answer. Our men became suspicious and asked if she was in danger. She said, 'Yes, he's holding my baby upstairs and he has a gun'."

The two officers reported back to Somers. Detectives Richardson and Kenneth Horsman tried to start a shouted conversation but the intruder shouted back he wanted the area cleared of all police. He said he intended to take the mother and daughter as hostages, take her car and leave the area.

Richardson phoned from a nearby home and tried to bargain but, said Stewart, the intruder "became more upset . . . he screamed and shouted, 'If you come anywhere near me, I'll shoot them both and shoot myself. I just want to get out of here. I want you guys out of here'."

He told Richardson he wouldn't leave without "the girl and the child (but) would drive only a short way with the hostages and then bail out."

Richardson said he had to clear it with his superiors and the gunman gave police 15 minutes to clear the area. He smashed out some windows of the Smith home.

At one point, the gunman may have agreed to talk to Victoria Constable John Johnston, a former member of the multi-force drug squad in Greater Victoria. But he is out of town on holidays.

Police began to move both themselves and spectators back. At noon, about 30 minutes after the two officers knocked on the Smith door, the gunman wrapped a blanket around himself and his two hostages and, holding the gun near eye level, walked out the door.

They walked down the front steps to the Smith car. The gunman drove away with the girl on his lap and Mrs. Smith beside him. Police followed at a distance through Fairfield past Ross Bay cemetery, up Foul Bay Road, back through the Saanich panhandle and into the area south of the Hillside shopping centre.

Sgt. Gordon Bennett reported at 12:20 p.m. police lost sight of the car near Belmont and Myrtle.

For the next 65 minutes, nothing. Numerous false reports were checked out from south Victoria north well into Saanich. A helicopter joined the hunt. Police looked through numerous apartment and shopping centre parking lots in Victoria.

He wasn't needed. At 1:25 p.m., Mrs. Smith phoned police from GTL Transport, 220 Esquimalt, about 1½ blocks from an alley behind 600 Wilson. She said the intruder had stopped in the alley, told them he was releasing them and taken off on foot between houses toward Wilson.

Mother and daughter were taken home rather than to a hospital. Smith apparently drove them to a secluded spot to help ease their recovery and they did not reappear until about 6 p.m., when the mother went to police headquarters to tell her story. By then, the suspect Cain was in the same building's cells.

But while the Smiths were safe at 1:25, police had a long 3½ hours ahead. Manhunt centre was moved into Victoria West, Esquimalt police stepped up efforts in their municipality and a police dog joined the search.

Dozens of false reports complicated matters. Suspicious men were reported on several roofs. A man with a knife was said to be trying to break in at 213 Skinner. Men were seen running through bushes. A man on a trimaran was checked at West Bay Marina.

Curious onlookers got in the way. Traffic was thick. Taxis had to be checked. Persons living in the area and "known to police" received visits. Shotgun-carrying officers were reported to headquarters by nervous residents.

Police told officials at Victoria West and Highrock schools not to let pupils out singly. When the children went home, it was with instructions to go there directly and avoid parks and bushland. Officers checked railroad bridges and knocked on dozens of doors.

Later, Staff-Sgt. Stewart said police felt the suspect was "all over the district" between 1:25 and 4:45. Asked if the suspect stopped in any homes, Stewart said: "Not that we're aware of."

Victoria Police Chief J. F. Gregory called in newsmen at 4:30 for Richardson's appeal. "This is an appeal to Daniel Cain . . . Danny, if you're listening, I was the officer who was talking to you on the phone on Leonard . . ."

Richardson ended by saying police were "extremely happy" the person he spoke to on the phone had fulfilled "our main concern," the freedom of the hostages once police backed off. He urged Cain to phone any police department.

Gregory asked Stewart to tell newsmen the story in chronological order and Stewart was nearly finished when someone shouted: "Hold it . . . hold it . . . we've got the suspect under arrest here. Craigflower and Raynor. He was in a cab."

Cabbie Ron Colbert had picked up a fare at 703 Esquimalt in answer to a phone call and, after receiving several sets of travel instructions, suddenly saw a pistol in his fare's hands and police cars dead ahead as the cab went down Raynor.

He decided to "bail out" and dive behind the rear bumper. Police seemed to approach from all sides and the fare gave up without resistance. Stewart said a starter's pistol and a rifle were found in the cab.

The detective said "an observant police officer" had seen the fare during the cab's erratic ride and alerted all cars in the area.

The car struck a pole near the Ross Bay cemetery — and just before the crash, said Mrs. Smith, Emily cried for the first and only time.

The man told his hostages he was heading for Esquimalt where he "knew some friends."

He eventually stopped the car, at about 1:25 p.m., at Wilson in Vic West, and told her he was going on foot from there but that she was to give him a "head start" before she left with the car.

Just before he left he told her the gun he was carrying was only a cap pistol — and not the "real gun" Mrs. Smith had believed he was carrying.

Tuesday night the Smith family, including Diane's mother, Mrs. Woodley, relaxed in the livingroom of their Fairfield home.

The Academy Awards were on television and Emily, who earlier had expressed delight at her new doll, was now eating a snack contentedly.

The only sign of the earlier turmoil in the house was a dozen smashed window panes.

Victoria was losing its garden-city image, said Smith, and getting to be a "rough town."

find it in their hearts to help the more than 150 children who have severe handicaps and are awaiting adoption placement in this province."

Levi warned that an over-emotional response to the war orphans could create major problems in the future.

"The children are the children of Vietnam and Cambodia," he said. "If the desire to airlift thousands of them is because their lives are in danger, surely there has been a clear and present danger for all the children in this war zone for the past 15 years.

"If they must be removed from danger, why not to an area in Southeast Asia where they can be cared for until that danger has passed and they can be returned to their homeland?"

Levi suggested that Canadians participate in such a program by donating money and personnel.

"We, of course, stand ready to assist any child that comes to this country, but we cannot be party to pillaging a country of its children. Those children who will come because the government of their country has said they can come through an orderly process will, of course, be welcomed."

Levi said that while making his appeal for a cool and rational approach to future airlifts he felt it unlikely that any substantial number of children would be coming to Canada in the near future.

"As of this moment, we have absolutely no information that more children, other than those already arranged for, are likely to come to Canada," he said.

Meanwhile, it was announced in Ottawa that one of the three Canadian Hercules aircraft that have been standing by in Hong Kong for use in South Vietnamese evacuations is being brought home.

An external affairs department spokesman said the two others will remain until it is decided they are no longer needed either to evacuate about two dozen Canadians remaining in Saigon or to bring out Vietnamese refugees or orphans.

'Fateful American decisions'

Ford kept in dark

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senator Henry Jackson, Washington Democrat, said Tuesday that there were "secret agreements" between the United States and South Vietnam which had been hidden from Congress and — until recently — from President Ford.

Jackson said the agreements "envision fateful American decisions," but did not disclose what they entailed. Nor did he accept a challenge to make his knowledge available to the Senate.

"I know of no secret agreements," said Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield. "Every time we met with Mr. Kissinger after one of his visits and journeys overseas, that question was asked, and the answer always was no."

He said if there was substantial evidence of secret agreements, "I would expect the appropriate committees to look into the breaches of faith and trust."

In a Senate speech, Jackson said, "I have it on the best of information, the best authority, that secret agreements were reached" in connection with the Paris peace accords on Vietnam.

As for Ford, Jackson said, "I think he has only recently found out about these accords."

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen had no immediate comment on Jackson's charges and deputy press secretary John Hushen said later in the day "Our position is that we have nothing to say."

Jackson, an announced candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, said that while Ford had hinted Congress reneged on its commitments to South Vietnam, "the fact is that Congress is being accused of violating commitments and obligations it never heard of."

Jackson also said "obsessive secrecy" marked the SALT I negotiations, to the point where not even then defence secretary Melvin Laird and then secretary of state William Rogers were informed about two accords.

And Jackson said "crucial Soviet-American communications" bearing on the trade bill had still not been disclosed to Congress.

Trace elements indicate cancer

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The presence of four trace elements in human blood can be measured to indicate the presence of cancer, University of Rhode Island researchers said Tuesday.

Blood tests of 16 patients with diagnosed cases of advanced cancer showed abnormal levels of copper. cesium, cadmium and cobalt, researcher Dianne Zdankiewicz said in a paper prepared for the American Chemical Society's national meeting.

The copper level was found to be 60 per cent higher and cadmium 28 per cent higher than in a group of healthy subjects.

"Copper and cadmium are considered essential for human health. Perhaps because cancer is an uncontrolled growth,the body absorbs more of these elements to support the growth," Ms. Zdankiewicz said.

Her research with Earl Stromberg and Dr. James Fasching of the university's department of chemistry showed levels of cobalt and cesium were down about 25 per cent in the blood of cancer patients.

The researchers said they believed variations of trace elements in blood could be used for diagnosis and clinical purposes, perhaps to follow the progress of chemotherapy in cancer patients.

"There have never been accurate blood tests for trace elements before. Only in the past two or three years have we had the techniques to measure such minute amounts."

Chiefs sue U.K. for $53 million

LONDON (UPI) — A South Seas island chief sat quietly in a London court Tuesday to challenge the British government for a prize of $53 million and an island looking "not unlike the moon."

Tebuki Rotan, 74, wearing an unaccustomed white shirt and dark blue overcoat, was in court for the beginning of two lawsuits in which his 2,000 fellow citizens are asking for their island back.

Rotan is the spokesman for the original residents of Ocean Island, also called Banaba Island, a 1,500-acre speck of land in mid-pacific that held one of the world's richest deposits of phosphates.

Since 1920, a three-nation consortium led by Britain has ripped the heart out of Ocean Island in its quest for the mineral deposits, paying the Banabans a royalty.

The islanders are suing Britain for a total of $53 million, claiming that the royalty was too low for half a century. They are demanding that the miners make their island liveable again.

"The worked-out areas look not unlike the moon," said attorney John Macdonald, handing photographs to the high court judge hearing the two suits.

Macdonald said the suits were designed "to right the wrongs of 50 years." One of those wrongs, he said, was to move the Banabans to an island 1,600 miles away.

"The banabans have never given up their homeland," Macdonald said.

"They agreed to live on Rabi (the island in the Fiji group where they were resettled)) only because a solemn underaking was given by Her Majesty's government that they would be able to go back to Ocean Island and not lose any of their rights as land owners."

Now the Banabans want to go home and set up a fishing industry, Macdonald said.

Bishop bars N.O.W.

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Catholics who publicly admit membership in the National Organization for Women, or any group that advocates abortion, will be refused communion in a four-county area of southern California, the bishop of the San Diego diocese has warned.

"No person who claims and professes views that are contrary to the teachings of the church can claim to be a practising Catholic, nor are they to be admitted to the sacraments," says a letter by Most Rev. Leo Maher. The letter has been sent to all parish priests in the diocese, who are required to read it to their congregations this Sunday.

The diocese covers San Diego, Riverside, San Bernardino and Imperial Counties. The bishop singled out N.O.W. for its "shameless agitation" on behalf of abortion, and said its members were guilty of "a serious moral crime."

"The issue at stake is not only what we do to our unborn children but what we do to ourselves by permitting them to be killed," the bishop wrote.

The Schreyer Plan?

SURELY BY NOW there are misgivings within the federal administration on Finance Minister John Turner's approach to the inflation problem. The searching for a consensus of wages and prices continues but the trail appears to be as cold now as when the government first set out on the voluntary restraints course it felt "would best serve the common interest of all."

Six months ago Mr. Turner said ". . . it is important that we seek to develop a national consensus in support of working out a fair and reasonable balance between wages, prices and profits" in view of the acceleration of inflation by high wage settlements.

This was the Liberals' alternative to the Progressive Conservatives' call in the July election campaign for mandatory controls which Prime Minister Trudeau described as "a disaster looking for a place to happen."

The Tory plan, as unpopular as it proved to be at the polls, at least was realistic, which is more than can be said for the "consensus search." To refresh memories, the proposal was for a 90-days prices and wages freeze followed by 18 months to two years of lesser controls to be worked out in consultation with the business community, labor and, of course, the provincial governments.

Under the plan, wages would be set after the potential of profit had been estimated in any given industry, and earnings would be governed in relation to investment, responsibility to shareholders and to the essential work force, without neglecting quality of production.

What this implies, as was pointed out at the time the proposal was unveiled, is a radical change from the current system in which organized labor tries to grab every possible advantage, and management, by and large, keeps production costs at a minimum in order to make larger profits, and seizes every opportunity to increase prices.

Unlike the Liberals' "consensus dream" it was a positive approach to inflation acceleration — a head-on hit at rising prices stimulating higher wage demands resulting in still higher prices and so on, ever upward.

Whether the continuing spiral has reached a height to make mandatory controls more acceptable now may be indicated with the formal presentation of the new Schreyer Plan at the two-day federal-provincial conference on energy starting today in Ottawa.

NDP Premier Edward Schreyer of Manitoba has long felt Canada is heading for economic disaster unless controls of some form are imposed on wages, prices, profits and dividends. He has had some support from NDP Saskatchewan, but elsewhere in the party has been odd-man-out.

But he may have found the answer to the unpopularity of controls, at least on wages in the lower income brackets. He would eliminate the percentage-increase system which, obviously, benefits those who earn the most and puts the poorer-paid further in arrears. Instead he proposes that the less a person makes the more he would get under the controls he would order.

Had the Progressive Conservatives offered something along this line things might have turned out quite differently in last summer's election.

Money for municipalities

PREMIER DAVID BARRETT goes to the first ministers' conference on energy seeking a higher price for exported natural gas. The results he obtains will have a significant effect on B.C. municipal tax bills. Let the premier tell it in his 1975 budget speech:

"Over the past few weeks I have taken the opportunity regularly to inform the citizens of this province of the negotiations and ultimate resolution of the British Columbia natural gas question . . . Members will recall that one of our proposals, one that was not accepted by Ottawa, was that the increased revenue from natural gas export prices exceeding $1 per Mcf be split three ways — one-third to the federal government, one-third to British Columbia, and one-third to the municipalities of this province.

"Notwithstanding the fact that the federal government rejected this proposal, our government has now decided to adopt this principle with respect to the sharing of revenues with British Columbia municipalities. Accordingly, one-third of the net revenue produced from an export price of gas over $1, after taking into account our federal tax rebate system and other expenses, will flow to municipalities in British Columbia. A new export price will soon be determined, following a forthcoming First Ministers' Conference.

"If the export price of gas is set at $1.50 per Mcf, the amount which would flow to the municipalities on an annual basis is roughly estimated at around $20 million. An export price of $1.75 would produce approximately $30 million for the municipalities. An export price of $2, which is the competitive value of the fuel, would yield approximately $40 million for the municipalities in a full year, which, at current population levels, is equivalent to an additional per capita payment of over $20 . . ."

There is no way of telling what the total municipal tax levy will be this year, nor have we seen a figure for last year, but the premier indicated that for 1973 it was around $240 million. Thus it can be seen that $40 million for a full year would relieve taxpayers of something less than a sixth of their burden, but still a substantial amount. A price barely above $1 per thousand cubic feet would help them not at all.

Mayor Art Phillips of Vancouver regards this approach as making pawns of the municipalities in a struggle between the B.C. government and Ottawa: certainly it gives Premier Barrett the opportunity to blame Ottawa for the plight of municipalities if he doesn't get what he wants. But a stronger objection is that this gas revenue could dwindle; the municipalities need revenue which will grow with the economy. A fixed share of provincial income tax, as suggested by the municipalities, would fill the bill.

The gypsies of eastern Europe

By BOB SAFTIC from Belgrade

In a society as tightly organized and controlled as Communist eastern Europe, it seems improbable that any large group of people could resist assimilation.

But many of eastern Europe's gypsies still hold to the unsettled way of life they led in pre-war days, plying the highways and byways and begging, fortune-telling or peddling for their bread in the towns and big cities.

Most East Bloc countries have passed special laws and are trying to settle the gypsies, obliging them to take up conventional occupations — but only with limited success.

Gypsy leaders, however, claim that not enough has been done and that there remain deeply ingrained prejudices against them so that many have no choice but to beg and steal.

Where gypsies have settled down they remain a people set apart, still sending out their raggedly dressed women, cradling children on their arms, to beg or sell flowers. One gypsy, living in a newly built resettlement community for gypsies south of Zagreb, even still goes out every day to earn his living with his tambourine and dancing bear — a not uncommon sight in the Balkans and central Europe.

Mija Vujicic is a Communist Party member and unofficial leader of a 300-strong gypsy village at Osaonica in central Yugoslavia where most work at a local hydraulics factory.

"This is one of the more fortunate communities because we have work here. But in most areas where gypsies have settled there is no attempt to find them work or train them. Only one in five gypsies in Yugoslavia can read or write so most get by without regular jobs. Because people see gypsies on the streets begging it makes them think we are all worthless," he said.

Yugoslav authorities, however, play down the problem and say gypsies are no more than a small recalcitrant minority, officially estimated at 77,000. The gypsies themselves lay claim to 1.5 million.

Czechoslovakia, which has 320,000, has probably made the most progress in handling its gypsy problem. Regional commissions have been set up, gypsy huts and encampments cleared away and generous subsidies given to families to buy new flats or proper houses. There is also a cultural and educational program and one gypsy, Emil Rigo, has even become a member of the Communist Party presidium.

But officials report that progress at assimilation is very slow — partly because of the unwillingness of the local population to live among or work with gypsies.

There was considerable public resentment when figures were announced of how much gypsy families were being paid in subsidies to buy new flats or build proper houses. And the party paper, Pravda, commented sourly that many families used the materials from their demolished huts to build their "new" homes.

The ill-feeling between the two communities is particularly acute in Romania and Poland where tens of thousands of gypsies were murdered by the Nazis in wartime extermination camps comparable to the genocide practised on the Jews.

According to official figures, there were 250,000 gypsies in Romania in 1939 against an estimated 100,000 today and in Poland their numbers have become almost insignificant. The 8,000 who remain do not constitute a major social problem and a Polish government decree 10 years ago to make gypsies settle down has been for the most part effective.

The Romanians make little pretence of trying to integrate them. "They remain a living example that you can't socialize everybody," a Bucharest newspaper editor said.

Hungary, with an estimated 300,000 takes a more enlightened attitude and recently adopted a policy to settle and integrate gypsies. According to official data, at present two-thirds of Hungarian gypsies still live in a gypsy environment and the majority still live in the country and provincial cities — about 70 per cent of them in encampments.

Hungarians, however, refuse to accept them as neighbors and many gypsies have rejected the specially built housing complexes for them as "gypsy ghettos." Integration in local schools has proved difficult because most do not speak Hungarian and have to be taught at special classes.

Bulgaria, which has nearly a quarter of a million gypsies, has taken a tougher line in forcing them to settle and remain in a particular area. Gypsy culture is held in lower regard there than in Hungary, Romania or the Soviet Union and the traditional costumes are hardly ever seen.

But although Bulgaria has a labor shortage, gypsies are not readily employed. Officials said they were not productive workers and resisted training for skilled jobs.

Soviet gypsies, numbering about 175,000, are a people set apart. In a 1970 census, 70:8 per cent listed Romany as their first language and they remain concentrated in their traditional areas of Moldavia and the Ukraine.

Soviet attempts to halt their nomadic way of life go back to decrees by Stalin in 1926 but despite the severe restrictions on even local travel many are still itinerant.

Gypsies wearing traditional costumes and begging with babies cradled in their arms are a common sight in Moscow.

In eastern Europe as a whole, however, it is Russia which has the best record in its treatment of gypsies. Most fled there during the Middle Ages to escape the inhuman slavery they were subjected to in the Balkans after their migration from India.

The British traveller and gypsologist, George Borrow, wrote in 1841 that some gypsies in Moscow attained such a high place in society "that it may be considered a phenomenon in gypsy history."

The Moscow gypsies, Borrow said, were noted for their fine singing and were highly paid to perform "in the halls of the nobility or upon the boards of the theatre."

Given the generally tough conditions that gypsies have always experienced in eastern Europe, it is perhaps surprising that they should be so numerous here — far more so than in the West. Ironically, whereas in most East European countries birthrates are static or in some cases declining, gypsy populations are increasing steadily — another cause for official concern.

Yugoslav gypsy poet Slobodan Berberski, former president of the World Romany Union, said: "I would estimate that there are 15 million gypsies in Europe or North America. I don't know what our population growth is but it seems to me natural that any people which feels itself threatened will try to propagate to save its species.

"Our situation is not that different from the Slavs and the Jews who at one time were also both wandering people. Now, however, our time has come, like them, to settle down."

Confederate Gen. Robert E. Lee surrendered to Gen. Ulysses S. Grant 110 years ago today — in 1865 — at the Appomatox courthouse and the American Civil War was over. The industry and economy of the South had been virtually destroyed. The war cost the North about $11.5 billion including pensions and interest on war loans and the South about $3.5 billion.

1917 — The Battle of Arras opened in the First World War and Canadian troops captured Vimy Ridge.

A problem like Canute's

By RICHARD JACKSON, Colonist Ottawa Bureau

Having permitted a rising tide of 250,000 or more illegal immigrants to sweep into Canada, the federal government is finding itself in the same difficulty as confronted King Canute.

It may have stemmed the flood of phoney "visitors" that streamed in by charter jets from Asia and the Caribbean, but the trickle still persists.

It's more than a trickle, too, because the sheer number of blacks in the cities of Ontario, particularly Toronto, and of Asians on the West Coast, especially in Vancouver and its satellite communities, is sparking what State Secretary Hugh Faulkner calls "racial tension."

They'd fly in by the jet-load with a little money — but seldom enough, realistically, to cover much more than a short bus ride — with obviously ridiculous claims of wanting to holiday in the Rocky Mountain resorts of Quebec, vacation at Niagara Falls out West, or visit Halifax, Manitoba.

And a lot of the time they'd make it through immigration, go "underground" in the big cities, latch onto strictly illegally-held jobs, and blend into the immigrant ghettos.

Immigration Minister Andras long wanted to stop this nonsense, but the bleeding hearts of the cabinet wouldn't hear of it.

They finally listened when the public protest got loud enough to penetrate the bureaucratic insulation that sound-proofs this off-the-beaten-track national capital from the taxpayers in the real world beyond its fat-cat boundaries.

But so many illegal immigrants had made it in by then and sent the good word home that Canada has become the promised land of impoverished thousands more in the Caribbean and Asia.

They can't make it now because recent immigration restrictions require prospective immigrants to have job offer guarantees before arriving in Canada.

Employment agencies in Port of Spain, Trinidad, where the Canadian diplomatic mission handles all visa applications from the Eastern Caribbean, have set up a new and thriving industry.

It's the fabricating, or the forgery of the "job offer guarantee letter."

For a price — upwards, usually, of $100 — the intended immigrant can buy a letter purportedly from a Canadian employer offering a job in Canada.

Who says so?

Immigration Minister Andras' aides say so, while at the same time claiming to be aware of the racket and in a position to counter it.

Ron Button, an aide in the office of Robert Andras, is on the record as contending that the department is "alert to racket in the Caribbean and other places as well," but concedes that despite all the precautions Immigration and Manpower co-operatively have taken, there has to be some "leakage."

What happens, he relates, is that a letter comes in from say, Joe Smaltz' garage in Anytown, Ontario, offering a job to some Joe in Trinidad, Tobago, the Virgins, or any other island in the Eastern Caribbean, or India, Pakistan, or Malaysia.

It's on Joe Smaltz' letterhead, even. It could be a forgery printed in Port of Spain or Rangoon — or Joe Smaltz might be on the take for use of his name.

"We check it out," reports Ron Button, "and if Manpower has no Canadian who wants and can do the job, the Joe in Trinidad or wherever gets in to take it.

"But if it's a phoney, sooner or later we catch on. Joe Smaltz has a three-pump, two-hoist garage and in over a year he hires 16 guys from the Caribbean. A phoney. Obviously a leak. We plug it."

Sure the "leakage" may be small, as Ron Button claims.

But it's big enough that one agency in Trinidad, advertising job offers from "Canadian employers" has a waiting list of clients ready with their $100 that could take a year to fill. And that's only one office in the mushrooming Caribbean "job letter industry."

Logic is tricky stuff

By RON POULTON

The Retail Merchants Association used a rare and rather old-fashioned kind of logic when it presented a brief to the federal government. But it is not logical to suppose that any of the association's recommendations will ever be carried out.

The association struck a blow for common sense, which in this tinny age is as uncommon as logic. It merely asked the government to: Force Unemployment Insurance grafters to work three days a week; give people making under $9,500 an additional tax exemption of $1,000; stop strikes in vital services by compulsory arbitration; and quit giving students more money to travel to exotic places than the merchants can pay them in wages.

The chances of any of these reforms being put into motion are slim.

For one thing, the reforms collide with a political philosophy that is as transient as a baby's burp. For another, they ask society and its leaders to concentrate at a time when both of those forces have the concentration span of an ailing newt.

The association suggested these moves as a way of fighting inflation. But if everybody was able to concentrate collectively, inflation could have been killed yesterday.

The recipe is simple: Don't buy; quit grabbing; tear up all your credit cards. The initial result would be chaos, after which a new crop of elected leaders would make the same mistakes as their predecessors and encourage or force us all to be inflationary again.

The age, itself, invites this kind of folly. It's not surprising, therefore, that after years of constantly rising prices, it should come to pass that a group of merchants would appeal to the government to roll back prices.

To them, it's a matter of logic. But one man's logic is nonsense to another, which is another way of repeating that the government will do nothing because it will look upon the merchants' logic as totally illogical.

Logic is tricky stuff.

It is, for instance, logical to believe that a room will go dark if you turn out the light but it's a totally illogical act if it makes you trip over a chair and break your leg. If you follow me. And it gets worse.

I once went to a dictionary looking for the meaning of logic and came across a school of mental gymnastics called "logical positivism" (also known to the cognoscenti as "logical empiricism" in case you were wondering).

The lexicologists who defined all this took a deep breath and explained that it was "a contemporary philosophical movement that stresses the function of philosophy as a method of criticizing and analyzing science and that rejects all transcendental metaphysics, statements of facts being held to be meaningful only if they have verifiable consequences in experience and statements of logic, mathematics or philosophy itself, deriving their validity from the rules of language."

His explanation points up another problem with logic. He must have thought he had done it logically but I don't understand it and the more I read it the worse it gets. Which brings us back to the merchants and the politicians.

The reforms sought by the merchants were sensible. But it was hardly logical of them to appeal to a group that had perpetrated the idiocies in the first place.

The pattern of government is too set to listen to the merchants' logic. And the country is too full of people who believe in free enterprise as long as it doesn't interfere with their chances of getting a government hand-out.

Even the farmer — once the most independent of individuals — now looks to government to build him a wind breaker of money every time the weather turns sour. When the prices of foodstuffs threatens to drop, the government props them up.

Today that's logical.

You'll pardon me, sir or madam, while I take a little something for this headache.

Sadat keeps peace door ajar

Shuttle diplomacy may be dead, but a brief chat with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat here in Cairo makes it plain that the step-by-step approach to a Mideast settlement under American auspices is still alive.

By JOSEPH KRAFT from Cairo

Diplomatic efforts are under way here and in Washington to resume the talks between Israel and Egypt that broke off with the failure of Henry Kissinger's latest mission to the Near East.

Achieving a grace period for revival of those talks was, in fact, the prime purpose of Sadat's last major speech.

The Kissinger mission had ended in a bitter atmosphere without any agreed plans for resumption of talks between Israel and Egypt.

King Faisal, a supporter of Sadat's essentially moderate approach, and a bulwark against radical Arab nationalism, had died in Saudi Arabia.

Iraq, the most potent of the radical Arab states, had been freed to play a part in the fight against Israel by the arrangement with Iran ending the Kurdish revolt.

The radical regime in Syria was rejoicing in the failure of the Kissinger mission, and implying that its own stand on behalf of the Palestine Liberation Organization had prevented Sadat from selling out the Arab cause.

The PLO, newly bound to Syria by an agreement on a joint command, was rejoicing at the setback to Kissinger, and contemplating a new wave of attrition warfare against Israel.

* * *

These perils were fully exposed at the impromptu summit meeting which took place among Arab leaders attending the funeral of Faisal.

Sadat was left severely alone by the radical Arabs, notably President Hafez Assad of Syria who did not even talk to him.

The radicals tried to build pressure for a chain reaction that would lock the Arab world and the Russians into a confrontation posture with Israel and the United States.

Among other things, the radicals wanted a special Arab summit meeting right away; a quick calling of the Geneva conference, bringing Russia back into the diplomatic picture; and a refusal to take further steps in the direction of settlement with Israel.

In those conditions, Sadat used the occasion of his recent speech to assert a series of positions which worked to brake the force of events.

* * *

He said he would reopen the Suez Canal on June 5, the eighth anniversary of the Six Day War.

He asserted he would voluntarily renew the mandate of the United Nations force separating Egyptian and Israeli troops for a three months period beginning April 24.

He came out against an early Arab summit, and said that first there should be a coordination among Egypt, Syria and the PLO on tactics towards Israel.

He added that while he ultimately wanted to go to the Geneva conference, that was not inconsistent with continuing the step-by-step approach.

* * *

Every position taken by Sadat tended to foreclose choices for, or impose debts upon, those who sought to force Egypt's hand.

The Syrians, given the Egyptian lead, are virtually obliged to renew the mandate of the UN force separating them from the Israelis when it expires on May 30.

They and the PLO leaders will have to come to Cairo and patch up matters with Sadat before they can get an Arab summit meeting.

* * *

Even their Russian patrons now have debts to pay to Egypt. Moscow is the big gainer from the opening of the Suez Canal. Cairo expects in return more Soviet military aid and Soviet pressure on the Arab radicals to be more moderate in their demands.

But the biggest pressure, of course, now falls on the Americans and Israelis. Sadat believes he has acted to spare Israel from war, and the United States from humiliation.

* * *

By way of return, Sadat wants the Israelis to make good on the deal that was shaping up when the Kissinger negotiations were broken off. He wants the United States to push the Israelis to accept his terms.

So far it is not clear whether the rescue operation can succeed. But Egyptian Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmy and American ambassador Herman Eilts have been meeting to explore procedures for a resumption of the negotiations.

The Israelis have expressed interest, and there is a feeling in some quarters here that Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin, having proved his manhood by saying no before, is now strong enough to say yes.

* * *

Sadat is not hopeful. He tells visitors the Israelis are not ready for peace.

He expects a confrontation around July 23 when the mandate of the UN force runs out, and the anniversary of the Suez nationalization of 1956 comes round.

In the meantime, there is a period of grace. The United States and Israel have until late July to come up with something good enough to induce Egypt to resume the talks.

China may act to stifle threat to Burma by Hanoi

By RUSSELL BRINES

Events in Indochina are likely to bring new Chinese pressures on the strategically important country of Burma. To prevent the North Vietnamese from becoming a rival power in Asia and to keep them confined, the Chinese probably will try to sharpen Burmese communist activity.

A nation of 30 million people, Burma has been the least noticed and one of the most troubled of the former West European colonies in Asia.

It has been plagued by a continuous guerrilla war, which began in 1948 and nearly brought the Communist Party of Burma (CPB-White Flags) to power. It has been invaded and partially occupied on several occasions by Chinese regular troops and by Kachin irregulars under Chinese control.

But these and other troubles have been largely hidden behind a self-imposed seclusion which, among other consequences, has restricted foreign observers to short visits.

Three upheavals in the last 12 years, too significant to keep from the outside world, have demonstrated, however, the disillusionment spread by the attempt of a tight military dictatorship to impose a new type of socialism on a stubbornly independent people.

An incident last December sent students and monks into the streets of Rangoon fighting troops, burning government buildings and attacking police stations. Ostensibly the dispute was over where to enshrine the remains of the late U Thant, the former United Nations secretary-general. In actuality, the unarmed dissidents rose in protest against poor economic management by military officers and the loss of political and personal freedoms.

The uprising was put down by troops after probably scores of casualties and thousands of arrests. This means the government of General Ne Win and the ruling Revolutionary Council doubtless will continue the intense social tinkering which they initiated in 1962.

* * *

In essence, the junta has applied a modified communist-style system to their agrarian country, without some of the Soviet and Chinese cruelties and without following the international communist party line.

The country's small industries and other private enterprise are almost totally nationalized. Workers and peasants are completely controlled, but there are no large-scale collective farms. Each citizen comes under pervasive communist-crafted supervision, including surveillance by block revolutionary committees. But the Buddhist religion remains strong, dominant and unchallenged.

Refusing outside private capital and most foreign aid, particularly from the West, the junta attempted to build a viable economy on a flimsy infrastructure, and now the physical plant is deteriorating rapidly.

Workers and farmers have lost the incentive to produce, and neither discipline nor exhortation has worked. Burma was once the "rice bowl" for its poor neighbors, but today it exports less than one-sixth of its pre-Second World War total.

* * *

Furthermore, the country has not achieved national independence through socialism or rigid neutrality. China continues to attack the socialist government secretly through the CPB, which it has controlled tightly since the early 1950s, issuing orders through a rump Burmese Politburo located in Peking.

The Chinese have demonstrated their power so completely that Rangoon officials decide every policy with one eye on Peking.

Bordering Tibet, China, Laos, Thailand, and Bangladesh, Burma lies astride the invasion routes to South Asia and Southeast Asia — a position of major importance to Peking, particularly as it eyes the possibility of Soviet encirclement. Hence it may not be long before Burma becomes a renewed focus of Chinese attention.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

In your opinion...

Philosophy for young

I have just read Dr. Philip Ney's latest in a series of letters that he has written on the subject of crime and punishment.

A strong proponent of "the criminal is innocent, the public is guilty" theory, Dr. Ney proposes that it is we, the parents, teachers, fellow students or workers, etc. who are the cause of all anti-social behavior and as such it is we who should be punished.

The poor, maltreated discontents who have robbed, beaten, raped, ravaged or even murdered, should be "understood" and forgiven because someone else caused them to commit their crimes.

Dr. Ney begins with children, blaming others for their anti-social behavior. Let me tell you what I taught my children—a philosophy I've based my own life on.

Certain acts are wrong and never to be committed.

Stealing is wrong. Cheating is wrong. Destroying private or public property is wrong. Injuring inoffensive individuals or creatures is wrong. Being greedy is wrong. Bribery is wrong. Bullying is wrong. Turning away from those who need help is wrong. All this and more I taught my children.

The world is not a Garden of Eden. There are cruel, dishonest and vicious people around you. There are good, kind and honest people around you. Learn to tell them apart; never follow or copy bad behavior, and don't condemn all people for the actions of a few. Accept responsibility for your own actions, never blame others for what you do.

Realize that age, position and occupation don't necessarily imply that a person's behavior is right. Be ready to question the actions of those in responsible, high positions as quickly as you would an ordinary individual.

Keep in mind, always, that bad or irresponsible behavior on the part of others, doesn't give you the right to act as they do. If someone steals from you or others, it isn't all right for you to do so.

If someone bullies or abuses another weaker or more diffident person, you are not within your rights to join in the act. Because someone treats you unkindly or unfairly, is no cause to resent everyone and feel sorry for yourself.

Stand up to all people, big or small, who try to abuse or harm you. Go to the defence of the defenceless. Don't let anyone jeer or ridicule you into acts you know are wrong. Remember that it takes more courage to say "No, I won't" than to agree to go along with it.

Dr. Ney, once people are old enough and capable enough to know right from wrong, they are responsible for all their own decisions . . .

. . . To teach children that mother or father, teacher or friend, brother or sister, is to blame for their anti-social behavior, is to encourage them to give in to their baser instincts. To condone criminal action by withdrawing punishment is to encourage more and more lawlessness.

It's a funny thing, Dr. Ney, but this disruptive, corrupted, violent type of individual holds people like you in the greatest contempt. Permissive parents, teachers, laws and courts are despised, often hated, by the very people they're trying to coddle.

The delinquent or criminal only respects firm authority which punishes strictly, impartially and promptly.

That abusive, neglectful parents, teachers, etc. have a damaging effect on a child is very true. But we need stricter laws, not more laxity, to protect the children from this and to protect the public from the disruptive, often violent consequences.

Celsius formula gives fahrenheit equivalent

For the benefit of those who find that Celsius temperatures don't have much meaning, here's a simple formula which can be used mentally to give the fahrenheit equivalent:

Double the Celsius reading, deduct 10 per cent, add 32. Examples:

Celsius 10 doubled is 20, minus two is 18, add 32 equals 50 fahrenheit.

Celsius 31 doubled is 62, minus 6.2 leaves 55.8, add 32 equals 87.8 fahrenheit.

Airlifting of children insult to Vietnamese

The taking of children out of Vietnam is an insult to the Vietnamese people, because the implication is that these children will be maltreated by the North Vietnamese.

If anyone needs to be taken out of Vietnam it is the adults who had the misfortune of collaborating with the losing side.

In any case it is obtusely ethnocentric of North Americans to be interfering in Southeast Asia.

We may realize this by imagining a civil war in North America in which the Vietnamese are "rescuing" children and taking them to Vietnam.

'I'm a sadist...'

Re C. M. Smith's letter on hunters being sadists (April 2). Sure, I'm a sadist — I'd love to shoot people like Smith and other members of the genus Homo stupidus idioticus. I'd also like to shoot a few of the scalier members of the No Damn Principles party.

And while we are about it, how about open season on some of those thugs that that sterling specimen, the attorney general, wants to let go because he wants to close down all our prisons?

Oh, and while we are about it, I wonder whether Smith and his anti-hunting friends have ever sat with a doe while her fawn was born or had a marmot sit in his lap to scrounge peanuts. Better yet, I'll wager he has never had a weasel sit on his boot to be fed with morsels of fresh grouse.

After all, not all hunters are like the Sooke pitlampers. I am told that one of them claims to have taken 24 deer this winter. Yes, I'd like to shoot him too!

No services, no taxation?

As a parent and taxpayer in the city of Victoria I am very seriously considering deducting part of the taxes I will pay to the city this year. Why should we pay taxes for services not given?

Perhaps if a great many people in the city threatened to do so we would see an answer to this problem.

Gorst judged by comments

After reading about James Gorst being appointed as the head of a special committee for Marguerite and her berthing facilities I became curious about the validity of his credentials for such a task.

He seemingly has not produced any work that would show he could handle this job since his election and his past is no glowing record of capability.

It was difficult to develop an objective assessment of Mr. Gorst because of his background and the flood of criticism coming from public officials; therefore, I decided to wait and see what he would produce.

I didn't have to wait long, for in an article headed "She'll be a fun ship" (Colonist, April 3 — Page 9), he supplied all the necessary information I needed to make my assessment of his abilities as a qualified chairman of the "Marguerite Committee."

With comments like "It is intended to be a fun ship having the only bar facilities . . . in the B.C. ferry fleet . . . we want her to be a real people thing . . . she has a bar now and it will stay on . . . when the weather is bad people will have more to do than sit and look at themselves . . . the bar would be improved during an extensive refit . . ."

He has implied by these words of wisdom that people have nothing better to do with themselves when on board a ship than to get good and stoned to help them appreciate the people and surrounds about them.

I am not impressed with Mr. Gorst! In fact, I am disgusted with his simple-minded attitude towards this very important feature of Victoria.

If his comments are any indication of his ability to provide effective leadership for the committee which will eventually form a policy for the future of a major part of Victoria's Inner Harbor, then I don't lend much credibility to him or the committee's effectiveness.

In fact, it seems that this whole committee is just a token gesture on the part of Mr. Barrett to provide a so-called means of gathering intelligent, informed facts and opinions to produce a viable policy on the project.

They (the B.C. government) have already made up their minds! Mr. Gorst is just a dummy hand with the premier forcing a grand slam down the public's throat.

MONDE SELECTION BRUXELLES SELECTION DE LA QUALITÉ

The Monde Selection Gold Medal of Excellence. Silk Tassle won this highest honour because its extra 2 years of aging gives Silk Tassel a smoothness, a flavor, a total quality that other whiskies cannot match.

Silk Tassel...the 5 year old whisky. So why not enjoy that extra 2 gold medal years of mellowing age?

Toronto trading

TORONTO (CP) — The Toronto stock market Tuesday pulled out of a five-day slump to record its best advance in nearly two weeks. Trading continued light.

Analysts said a stronger New York market was a major influence on the trend. They pointed out that a number of consecutive declines usually brings bargain hunters into the market to pick up shares at the lower prices.

News from Imperial Oil that it had discovered oil and gas at its Adgo P-25 well in the Beaufrot Sea helped boost oil shares.

Imperial Oil, which confirmed the Beaufort discovery, was up ⅝ to $25¼. Other oil shares to gain included Dome Pete, up 1½ to $24½, Pacific Pete ⅞ to $18, Canadian Superior ¾ to $33 and Total ⅛ to $5⅝.

Among golds, Dome Mines gained 1 to $50, Camflo ⅜ to $13½, Campbell Red Lake 1¼ to $31¾ and Giant Yellowknife ¼ to $10¼.

Bank's recession forecast:

B.C. to be prime target

B.C. is going to take the heaviest economic buffeting of any region in Canada for the duration of the current recession, according to the latest Bank of Montreal Business Review.

The forecast notes the province's forest products and mining industries, which between them account for 60 per cent of B.C.'s manufacturing activity, have been affected in the past two years by a deterioration in demand, especially in other countries.

Unemployment declined on average in B.C. in 1974, but with heavy lay-offs in the resource industries this trend has been reversed and the unemployment rate has moved up to above 8 per cent. The highest level since October 1970.

"As a consequence, prospects for retail sales are not good," according to the Review. Although there was a strong gain in retailing in 1974, the experience in previous recessions has been that trade became very sluggish as unemployment rose.

"It appears the recovery in B.C. will depend heavily upon the timing of the upturn in the United States," says the Review and although there are indications that the forces of recovery are in the wind, it is unlikely that a pick-up will come quickly enough to prevent B.C. from suffering a rather poor year in 1975.

The Review points out the prairies currently are benefitting from significantly high prices for farm products and Alberta's oil and gas sector is generating substantial income. Economic conditions have been very robust in recent years.

In previous recessions the Prairies have tended to stand up very well with the exception of a sluggish performance in investments.

Petro-Can passes hurdle

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons approved in principle Tuesday a bill to establish a national petroleum corporation designed to increase petroleum supplies.

Eleven New Democrats and 11 Social Credit MPs voted with 114 Liberals and easily defeated the Progressive Conservative opposition 136 to 67.

The corporation, to be called Petro-Canada, would be authorized to move into all phases of the petroleum industry, including refining and distribution. It also could take over existing private petroleum companies.

FORSYTH STEEL APPOINTMENTS

H. D. Lumsden — G. R. Gage — W. H. Preston — R. B. Treasurer

Messrs. A. J. B. & T. F. Forsyth are pleased to announce the following appointments effective March 14th, 1975.

Harold D. Lumsden, Executive Vice-President and Secretary, Gordon R. Gage, Vice-President Operations, William H. Preston, Vice-President Marketing, R. B. Treasurer, C.A., Vice-President Finance.

Travel firms propose fund

VANCOUVER (CP) — A travel industry advisory committee has recommended to the government that a $250,000 fund be established to provide consumer protection against financial failure or lack of performance by travel firms.

Len Taylor, committee chairman, said the proposed fund would take about three years to build up out of levies on sales of 350 British Columbia travel operators and initial assessments.

He suggested the levies be about one-tenth of 1 per cent of the travel package sales, excluding fares of common carriers. But he said the figures would be decided by the government, which is completing consumer protection legislation, expected to be tabled later this month.

Consumer protection in cases of negligence, fraud or misrepresentation would be through civil suits as the law currently stands, the committee decided.

Taylor said he did not know whether the legislation would parallel committee recommendations.

Consumer Affairs Minister Phyllis Young said in January that strict controls would be placed on travel operators through the proposed legislation.

Ontario legislation, which calls for a $1 million consumer compensation fund to be set up by the industry, is being studied.

CANEM SYSTEMS LTD.

The Directors of Canem Systems Ltd. are pleased to announce the appointment of Mr. William B. Taylor as President of the company.

Mr. William B. Taylor, P.Eng.

Born in Saskatchewan, Mr. Taylor graduated from the University of British Columbia in 1957. Eight years ago he joined Canem Systems where he has held a number of executive positions during the company's rapid expansion throughout Western Canada.

A major supplier of integrated electrical, mechanical and line systems to business, industry and government, Canem has offices in Vancouver, Victoria, Edmonton and Calgary.

Housing production falls below federal prediction

OTTAWA (CP) — Housing production continued to drop like a stone in March, raising the possibility of further government economic intervention later this year.

Housing starts in urban areas in March were 6,165 units, a 54-per-cent decline from 13,291 in the same month last year, Central Mortgage and Housing Corp. CMHC said Tuesday.

Urban starts in the first three months amounted to 18,271, down 49 per cent from 35,286 in the same period last year.

A CMHC official said the current low production rate raises doubts about chances of reaching the government's minimum target of 210,000 starts this year.

He said he personally would not be surprised to see further government economic efforts to increase production unless there is a dramatic turnaround.

William Teron, CMHC president, hinted in a February speech in Montreal that the government would step in if housing starts showed signs of slumping below the 210,000-starts goal for this year.

The January-March figures indicate starts of single-family houses were down 44 per cent from the same period in 1974 while there was a 52-per-cent drop in starts of multiple units such as apartments.

The CMHC official said he feels that housing production reached a low point in March and there should be signs of a recovery soon.

He said builders apparently were reluctant to make commitments until the new housing bill was passed by Parliament.

The new legislation, approved last month, extends the assisted home ownership (AHOP) and limited-dividend rental housing programs to include private lenders.

Urban Affairs Minister Barney Danson has said he expects about $1 billion annually from private lenders for the AHOP and rental programs.

Loans are at subsidized interest rates to low-and moderate-income home buyers under AHOP. Builders also may receive loans at low interest rates to build rental units provided they agree to fixed rents for up to 15 years.

Crown earnings down

VANCOUVER (CP) — Crown Zellerbach Canada Ltd. Tuesday reported net earnings for the first quarter of 1975 of $2.8 million or 35 cents a share, down 48 per cent from the same quarter last year.

Sales totalled $65.6 million, down 14 per cent, the company said in a news release.

In the first three months of 1974 the forest products company had net earnings of $5.4 million or 68 cents a share on sales of $76.5 million.

President Robert Rogers said the decline in earnings was due primarily to reduced housing starts.

He said newsprint and pulp continue to help offset the decline in earnings, but some softening of pulp and paper has become evident.

Rogers said no major change in market conditions is anticipated in the second quarter.

Soviet sailings start

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Russians have established their first direct scheduled ship service from western Canada and the United States to the Soviet ports of Vladivostok and Nakhodka.

The Far Eastern Shipping Co. (FESCO), of Vladivostok, whose Vancouver agent is Pacific International Freightliners Ltd., have announced the start of break bulk and containerized service at the end of this month with the sailing from northwest U.S. and Canadian ports of the MV Gavriil Derzhavin.

A Numismatic Rarity
The $10
Olympic Coin Error

The 1973 series 1 issue of Olympic coins were all to be dated 1973. However an error was made in the mint where the $10 Olympic coin was incorrectly stamped 1974, thus making it the rarest and most valuable of the series. Estimations are that there are less than 100 of these pieces available in the coin market. However at this time the Bay is pleased to offer 10 of these coins to its customers. So hurry in if you want to see this numismatic rarity. It may never be offered for sale again.

Rail gas cars 'found'

They're at 785 feet

United Press International

Seaspan International announced Tuesday in Vancouver it has found four tank cars filled with deadly liquid chlorine that sank from a toppled barge six weeks ago in Malaspina Strait.

But the transport ministry said the company's claims could not be confirmed until transit officials have inspected charts and graphs closely.

"There is little doubt now the four tank cars have been located. Special instruments have pinpointed them at a depth of 785 feet," in an area about 50 miles northwest of Vancouver, the company said in a statement.

The company said its tugboat Seaspan Breeze conducted a 17-day search using side-scan sonar and position find ing equipment.

Earlier searches by the transport ministries and environment using similar equipment and a submersible equipped with television cameras were fruitless.

Government agencies called off the search because the vessels involved were required on other duties.

The 340 tons of liquid chlorine in the tank cars was under pressure, and scientists said it posed no danger to human life as long as the tanks remained below a depth of 270 feet.

Above that depth, if a rupture occurred the chlorine would turn to gas and bubble to the surface, where it could form a deadly cloud of low-lying gas similar to that used in trench warfare in the First World War.

Consumers' complaints list

Cars still on the top

By JIM HUME
Colonist Reporter

Automobiles still head the list of complaints made to the provincial consumer services department, Minister Phyllis Young told the Legislature Tuesday.

"Automotive complaints far outnumber all others," she said during debate on her department's estimates.

"They are on new cars, used cars, repairs and in credit dealing," she added. She made no suggestions as to what action the government might be planning to improve the situation.

Rosemary Brown (NDP—Vancouver Burrard) urged Ms. Young to launch what she termed "class actions" against major oil companies in the province for false advertising of oil and gasoline qualities.

Ms. Brown also wants the minister to crack down on cereal advertising "and the whole area of food." She said she appreciated the fact that action should come from the federal government "but it won't be done; they are just not interested."

Ms. Brown also wants checks into building standards for mobile homes and the "built-in obsolesence features" in manufactured goods.

He suggested consumer affairs could have been handled quite adequately by the attorney-general's department and that the creation of a special department with an original budget of $1.2 million now more than doubled to $2.5 million was merely another example "of this government's consuming desire to increase the size of the cabinet."

Gardom was sharply critical of "lack of action" against what he termed "false government advertising." Quoting from a newspaper advertisement outlining the government's program of deferred taxes Gardom noted "the advertisement says deferred taxes are in effect a government loan. That's true. It goes on to say that the interest is eight per cent per year. That is false."

Gardom said the advertisement did not warn people taking advantage of deferred taxes that the interest was compounded and that "in the ninth or 10th year the principle will have doubled — and that is not modest interest."

He told the minister that if the government was going to use "pitch" advertising "at least let it be honest."

James Chabot (SC—Columbia River) asked Ms. Young what she was doing about Budget Freezer Processors "who have defrauded at least four families in my constituency."

Chabot said the four families had paid downpayments for meat amounting to $250, $317, $111 and $498 but had never received any meat. "Even worse," he said "the company wound up its affairs and then had the gall to ask these families to meet the rest of their contractual obligations."

Chabot said that although he understood the company had now declared bankruptcy he wanted to make sure "they haven't started up business under a new name or will ever be allowed to start business again in this province."

PROVINCIAL COURT

A 21-year-old Victoria man was sentenced to jail Tuesday in Victoria Provincial Court for possession of slightly more than two ounces of marijuana.

Stephen Kevin Hawley, 280 Superior, was found guilty by Judge Harold Alder following a trial on a charge of possession of three plastic bags containing a total of just over two ounces of marijuana Dec. 12, 1974, in downtown Victoria.

Testimony showed police attempted to stop him in the 1300-block Government but he ran along Government until he was stopped in the 500-block Johnson.

Alder sentenced Hawley to one month in jail followed by a one-year term of probation.

Victoria resident Edward Robert Nicholet, 21, hasn't been able to raise bail pending his preliminary hearing in July on a charge of murder punishable by life imprisonment — but he was granted one request Tuesday before he even finished saying it.

Nicholet, charged in the death of his wife, appeared for a routine one-week remand and began to ask for an eight-day remand insterad of seven days. He said: "Could I have an eight-day remand because . . ."

Alder interrupted to say "it is" and Nicholet answered, "Oh, thank you" without explaining the extra-day request.

Post office staff return to work

Victoria Post Office workers who booked off sick Monday night protesting the suspension of a fellow worker returned to work Tuesday and mail service was unaffected by the walkout, a post office spokesman said Tuesday night.

The workers, who complained of continual harassment by supervisory personnel and poor staff training, booked off when Martin Bolton was suspended for the rest of his shift and then escorted from the post office by police.

Bolton said that in six months of post office employment, he has never received any formal training and this complaint, expressed to his supervisor Monday night, led to the suspension and subsequent walkout.

However, the post office spokesman said it is standard post office routine to have the workers train each other and the system has been "very, very successful."

REGIONAL DIRECTOR NORTHERN HEALTH & SOCIAL SERVICES BOARD
High Level/Fort Vermilion Alberta

"It's basically a matter of bringing the services under one umbrella . . . the advantage is that you're not talking to someone 500 miles away expecting them to know the conditions here." This statement by a board member reflects this new concept of providing for the integration and coordination of health and social development services to a large area in Northern Alberta and its widely scattered population of 10,000. As the Chief Executive Officer reporting to the Board, the Regional Director's responsibilities will include administration of: two hospitals, a public health program, mental health services and preventative social services. The Director's challenge is to take this exciting concept and make it work at the operational level.

We know it won't be easy to find the right person. Personal ingredients will include a sense of adventure, highly self-motivated, desire to achieve results and a high degree of commitment. A work history with various health and social services disciplines including a knowledge of their policies and administration. Supervisory and administrative background is also required. Academic credentials include a university degree in a related discipline or a certificate in hospital organization and management augmented by additional experience or an equivalent.

LOCATION — High Level, Alberta
SALARY — The position will be of interest to those presently earning in excess of $18,000.

Laxton stifles Cougar punch as Bruins win series opener

By STAN COOPER

There is little wonder why Gordie Laxton has appeared in every game New Westminster Bruins have played this season in the Western Canada Hockey League.

It was obvious to 4074 fans at Memorial Arena on Tuesday when the husky goalkeeper backstopped New Westminster Bruins to a 3-1 win over Victoria Cougars in the opening game of the Western Division final.

Laxton, who set a WCHL record by logging 3980 minutes for the Royal City squad, turned in a spectacular performance, blocking every shot but one the highest-scoring team in league history fired his way.

The second game in the best-of-seven series will be played Thursday in New Westminster and the third is scheduled here Saturday.

Laxton finished with 41 saves, including 17 in the first period, and was particularly sharp in the middle period when Cougars held an edge in play.

The 20-year-old native of Montreal lost his shutout bid near the midway mark of the second period when Mel Bridgman connected for his eighth power-play goal of the playoffs, completing a smart passing play with defenceman Rick LaPointe.

It was one of the few times Cougars had command of the play while holding an advantage as Bruin-captain Barry Smith impressed the gathering which included about a dozen professional scouts with an amazing display of penalty killing.

Laxton held the Cougars out for the remaining time and the close-checking Bruins, who got a first-period goal from Mark Lofthouse, regained the lead when a bad lapse left Fred Berry with a clean breakaway.

And the former Cougar—he played one game here last season and was dealt to the Bruins during the summer in the three-way trade which brought Kim Clackson to Victoria—made no mistake with a wrist shot.

Cougars pressed for the remaining time but couldn't get many direct shots on goal and Smith capped the scoring with an empty-net goal in the final seconds.

Victoria-netminder Bob Leslie, who played well in making 30 saves, was pulled in favor of a sixth attacker but the Cougars lost the puck at mid-ice, leaving Smith a wide-open path to the net.

Bruins, who finished third in league play 14 points behind the champion Cougars, drew seven minor penalties, two more than Victoria.

And the fireworks expected of the two B.C. rivals failed to materialize as only one minor scuffle delayed the two hours and 15 minutes of end-to-end action.

Clackson and Bruin-winger Harold Phillipoff were tagged with minors following a high-sticking bout near the Cougar net but referee Ron Fournier, a National Hockey League trainee from Montreal, quickly hustled the combatants to the penalty benches before further trouble erupted.

Cougar-coach Pat Ginnell, forced to use only 18 players after Irv Bowles drew a one-game suspension for an incident in the semi-final series with Kamloops Chiefs on the weekend, juggled his lines in an attempt to get some scoring punch but the moves were unsuccessful.

Defenceman Tim Williams was moved up to left wing on a line with Rick Peter and rookie Kim Hilkewich while sophomore-rearguard Lorry Gloeckner partnered Clackson.

The defensive combination played well in containing the faster-skating Bruins but the move appeared to weaken the Cougars on offence.

In playoff action tonight, Regina Pats will attempt to wrap-up their Eastern Division semi-final series with Lethbridge Broncos. Pats play host to the Alberta squad and have a 3-2 edge in the best-of-seven affair which will decide the opponent for division-champion Saskatoon Blades.

IT TAKES TEAMWORK to stop Eric Sanderson when he gets up steam but two New Westminster Bruins combine perfectly on this play to negate the efforts of the big Cougar winger. And the Bruins, backed by Gord Laxton, stifled the rest of the Cougars too, to post a 3-1 win in opener of best-of-seven series.

Robinson homers in winning debut

In the lineup as a designated hitter batting second in the order, Robinson worked pitcher Doc Medich to a 2-2 count, fouled off three pitches, caught a fast ball and sent it over the left-field fence in the first inning. It was the 575th career home run for Robinson and the first player out of the Cleveland dugout to greet the manager at the plate was starting - pitcher Gaylord Perry, who has had differences with Robinson.

Perry, the winning pitcher in his 10th consecutive opening-day assignment, fell behind when the Yankees came up with three runs in the second inning.

But the Indians battled back with Boog Powell, Robinson's teammate with Baltimore Orioles, providing the big hits. Powell tied the score with a fourth-inning home run, and his sixth-inning double, the third hit for the big first baseman, scored George Hendrick with what proved to be the winning run.

"I was extremely pleased by the way we won," Robinson said. "The guys came from behind and played together and that's what you have to do to be successful."

In another American League opener, Boston Red Sox downed visiting Milwaukee Brewers, 5-2, spoiling the debut of Hank Aaron in a Brewer uniform.

Aaron and Tony Conigliaro of the Red Sox received huge ovations when they were introduced and when they came to bat for the first time. Conigliaro was hit in the eye by a pitch in 1967 and had been out of baseball the last three-and-a-half years.

However, Conigliaro, Boston's designated hitter, helped his club with a hit-and-run single that sent Carl Yastrzemski to third base in the first inning. Yastrzemski then scored on the front end of a double steal.

Another designated hitter, Minnesota's Tony Oliva, blasted a home run and helped pitcher Ferguson Jenkins to an early shower as the Twins romped over Texas Rangers, 11-4, in Arlington. Oliva clouted a two-out homer off the Ontario-born righthander in the second inning with Lyman Bostock and Larry Hisle on base and it prompted manager Billy Martin to pull Ferguson, who went the distance 29 times last season.

Rookie second-baseman Phil Garner drove in two runs and Vida Blue combined with Rollie Fingers for an eight-hitter as Oakland Athletics started defence of the American League pennant with a 3-2 victory over visiting Chicago White Sox.

In the National League, a pitching duel between Tom Seaver of New York Mets and Steve Carlton of Philadelphia was ended in the ninth inning by Joe Torre's run-scoring single which produced a 2-1 victory for the Mets.

Nordiques trim persistent rivals

Phoenix Roadrunners lived up to their reputations as persistent hard workers Tuesday, but they couldn't overcome the goaltending of Richard Brodeur.

The 22-year-old netminder stopped 37 shots including 20 in the third period and sparked Quebec Nordiques to a 3-2 victory over the Roadrunners before 10,105 fans at Quebec City and a 1-0 lead in the best-of-seven World Hockey Association playoff quarter-final.

Roadrunners made it to the playoffs in their first year in the league by playing systematically and never quitting, but they fell behind, 2-0, after one period and 5-1, after two and found Brodeur too tough in the third period.

Michel Parizeau put Quebec ahead at 7:14 of the first period and Rejean Houle made it 2-0 at 17:37 with his first of two goals. Rob Ftorek got the Roadrunners to within a goal at 33 seconds of the second period, but Brodeur wasn't beaten again until 3:58 of the third period when rookie Dennis Sobchuk scored his first playoff goal.

The series continues Thursday at Quebec.

Two other series get underway tonight and the fourth, between Cleveland Crusaders and defending AVCO Cup champion Houston Aeros, starts Thursday at Houston.

PHOENIX (2) — Rob Ftorek (1st), Dennis Sobchuk (1st). QUEBEC (5) — Michel Parizeau (1st), Rejean Houle (1st and 2nd), Renald Leclerc (1st and 2nd). Attendance: 10,105.

Sonics trim Pistons

Seattle's solid defence and Detroit's early shooting jitters Tuesday night resulted in a 90-77 win for the SuperSonics over the visiting Pistons in the opening game of their best-of-three National Basketball Association playoff series.

Sonics jumped off to a 22-12 lead in the opening quarter when Detroit could hit on three of 21 shots. Seattle's scoring was led by Fred Brown, 23, Spencer Hayword, 22, and seven-foot-two Tom Burleson, 19.

In the Eastern Conference playoff opener, Houston Rockets downed New York Knickerbockers, 99-84, in Houston.

In the American Basketball Association, Kentucky Colonels took a 2-0 lead in the best-of-seven, quarter-final series with a 119-105 win over Memphis Sounds in Louisville.

Spring baseball crowds up

NEW YORK (UPI) — If spring training is any indication, the 1975 baseball season could be the most profitable ever for owners as this year's exhibition attendance jumped 31 per cent over last year.

Attendance was 820,757, an increase of 195,018 over the 625,739 in 1974.

Only Chicago Cubs had a drop for games played at home but this year they played only nine games as compared to 13 last season. The Cubs' average was up for the nine games by 569.

New York Yankees led the way in total attendance with 68,927 fans for their 16 home games in Ft. Lauderdale.

Bruins bombard Hawks Islanders trip Rangers

An over-powering attack by Boston Bruins and a rousing third-period comeback by New York Islanders highlighted the Stanley Cup games played on the eastern seaboard Tuesday night.

And in Madison Square Garden, where they had never won a game until Sunday night, the Islanders made their first playoff appearance a successful one by scoring the only three goals of the third period to upset New York Rangers, 3-2.

Both games were the first in best-of-three series which will qualify the winners for quarter-final play. Second games are scheduled Thursday in Chicago and Uniondale, home of the Islanders. And if a third game is necessary in either series it will be played Friday with Bruins and Rangers again the home clubs.

Bruins, who lost division honors this season, were at their best in demolishing the Hawks. They built a 7-0 lead against Tony Esposito, who finished schedule play with a Sunday shutout and appeared set for another starry playoff. He was replaced at 1:29 of the third period, just after his older brother got his second goal, by Michel Dumas.

Veteran John Bucyk opened the scoring in the ninth minute of play, but it was more than six minutes later before the Bruins took a firm grasp on the situation. With both clubs playing two men short, Carol Vadnais and Andre Savard scored goals nine seconds apart.

Esposito got his first goal midway through the second period, then Greg Sheppard struck for goals 49 seconds apart to turn it into a rout.

The Hawks won the part of the game remaining after Esposito's second goal, Dick Redmond spoiling Gilles Gilbert's shutout hopes at 4:20 and John Marks just beating the final buzzer to get the Hawks their second goal. In between, Boston's Esposito clicked on a play with Wayne Cashman and Dallas Smith to make it four times that he has scored three times in a Stanley Cup game.

Despite the score, Boston-coach Don Cherry gave high marks to Gilbert, citing him as the biggest reason the Bruins ended a winless streak at eight games.

"Gilbert was the difference," Cherry maintained. "They got four shots right off the bat, and I thought he held us in the game. Chicago controlled the first five minutes of play, then we got rolling."

Islanders, who have now beaten their cross-Island rivals three times in a row, appeared to have let the game get away when veterans Brad Park and Pete Stemkowski scored second-period goals to boost Rangers into a 2-0 lead with Ed Giacomin playing as if he was heading for a shutout.

The Islanders then set the stage for their comeback when they held Rangers out when Gerry Hart and Ralph Stewart drew penalties only 16 seconds apart early in the final 20 minutes.

Just after the Islander penalty-killers done their job, Ranger-defenceman Gilles Marotte drew a penalty and the Islanders struck quickly for a goal by Billy Harris which gave their attack new life.

Jean Potvin, following up to pick up the rebound off his shot and shooting again before Giacomin could recover, tied it up at 11:51. Then Clarke Gillies, a standout rookie from the Western Canada Hockey League, slipped between the Ranger defencemen and moved in for the game-winning shot.

Penguins and Kings earn slim victories

It came out the way final National Hockey League standings said it should, but it was close in Pittsburgh and Los Angeles as the Penguin and Kings took the lead in their best-of-three preliminary Stanley Cup series.

Penguins needed the last three goals of the game to slip by St. Louis Blues, 4-3, and the Kings required more than eight minutes of overtime before subduing Toronto Maple Leafs, 3-2.

The series resume Thursday in St. Louis and Toronto, and move back to their starting points should a third game be necessary.

Gary Unger set up first-period goals by Claude Larose and Wayne Merrick to give the Blues their first two-goal lead. Then he made it 3-1 by scoring in the first minute of the third period.

But the Blues couldn't hold on, and two of the younger Penguins combined to turn things around for their club. Chuck Arnason tied the score with goals six minutes apart, and rookie Pierre Larouche broke the tie less than three minutes from time.

Carr, who had only seven goals during schedule play, gave the Kings a 2-1 lead which almost stood up. Ron Ellis connected from a scramble to get the 2-2 goal with only 90 seconds left.

It was the second time that the Leafs had come from behind. Blaine Stoughton scoring only 69 seconds later to match Bob Berry's first-period goal.

Elder tries but can't avoid Masters' spotlight

All around him, people are using expressions like precedent-setting, barrier-breaking and history-making to describe his appearance in the Masters Golf Tournament this week.

Elder, the first black to qualify for the Masters, made the only diversion from his pre-tournament routine Tuesday afternoon to hold a news conference for nearly 200 reporters who are trying to equate this tournament with everything from Jackie Robinson's major-league debut to lunch-counter sit-ins.

He would have none of it.

When one reporter suggested that Elder was here as a representative of the nation's entire black population, he made it quite clear just whom he was representing.

"Lee Elder is playing for Lee and Rose Elder," he said. "I'm not playing for anybody else. I'm playing for myself."

No first-time player at the Masters ever has gotten more attention than Elder has in his first two days here this week.

Even Jack Nicklaus and Lee Trevino have managed to go virtually unnoticed because of all the attention paid to Elder's debut, and that may be just the extra edge the superstars' need. Usually at a major championship they face diversions at every turn but this week the spotlight and its pressure is obviously on somebody else.

Elder, however, is trying to downplay it all.

"The pressure that I feel right now is no more than the normal pressure of the tournament itself," he says.

"I thought that I'd feel more scared than I am. Maybe by Thursday I will be."

Tuesday, playing a practice round with Liang-Huan Lu of Taiwan and John Mahaffey, one of the best of the young touring pros, Elder shot a one-under-par 71. He was two under until he three-putted the 18th green for a bogey.

Meanwhile, Nicklaus who was here for four days last week, returned in mid-afternoon to begin his final preparations in a bid for a record fifth Masters title. He won his last two starts on the tour and says "my game is in a little better shape than it was coming in here the last couple of years."

The only man to ever win the Masters in successive years (1965-66), Nicklaus has finished among the top 10 in five of his first six starts this year. He's playing so good now that Johnny Miller, the top money winner last year and this, says "everybody's forgotten about me."

"I'll tell you one thing," adds defending champion Gary Player. "Whoever beats Jack Nicklaus this week will win the tournament."

It will not require a victory to satisfy Elder, though.

In 1971, he felt his victory in the Nigerian Open should have earned him a masters invitation, and he was not bashful about saying so, sparking a controversy that did not abate until he finally won his way here by capturing a tournament last April at Pensacola, Fla.

"I am happy that it's all over with," Elder said Tuesday, "I'm here."

The Outdoor Club of Victoria has published its third book of Vancouver Island hiking trails.

This new 72-page booklet, Hiking Trails, Central and Northern Vancouver Island, describes hiking trails in the area from Strathcona Park to Cape Scott, including Della Falls, Comox Glacier, Forbidden Plateau, Gold Lake, Tsitika-Schoen area, Nimpkish Valley and Cape Scott PRK.

It is the sequel to Hiking Trails, Victoria and Southern Vancouver Island, and Hiking Trails, southeastern Vancouver Island, which have proved very popular with the outdoors people.

The booklets are edited and published by members of the Outdoor Club of Victoria as a non-profit-making project and may be obtained at bookstores, or through the Outdoor Club of Victoria, Trail Information Society, P.O. Box 1875, Victoria, $1.75 plus 12 cents postage for the latest booklet.

More about getting your fishing tackle in order for spring fishing season:

Prolonged use of monfilament line which has been fished many times and then allowed to dry on the reel can produce a stiff, wiry character in the line which makes it difficult to cast.

If this stiffness does not relax when the line is wet, it is time to replace the line.

When water evaporates from a line that is stored wet, some of the additives which are incorporated to make the line soft or limp tend to leach out.

Normal exposure to water, either fresh or salt, does not affect the monofilament. However, nylon does absorb water, and the line become limper in the process.

Water saturation also reduces the breaking strength of the line from 10 to 15 per cent .Well engineered premium line, such as Stren fluorescent monfilament, has a safety factor built in to guarantee its breaking strength when wet will be just above the rated pound test.

Line Twist: There are several reason why line twists. The spin of a lure or bait during trolling without use of a properly functioning swivel is probably the most common cause.

Attempting to reel in which the drag setting is allowing the fish to pull line off the reel can result in serious twist problems.

If it so badly twisted that massive snazzles or birdnests occur when a cast is made, don't waste time trying to correct it. Strip off the line and replace it.

Fishermen sometimes blame line problems on such things as temperature extremes or the stress experienced in fighting fish. Neither of these factors will damage a good premium line.

Cold water, as experienced in ice fishing, will make the line slightly stiffer and stronger, temporarily. However, the line will recover its original properties after removal from these conditions.

To check such impact resistance, the line is repeatedly pulled with a quick jerk to just below its breaking points, then released and pulled again.

Examinations have proved no effect on any line properties as a result of this torture test.

The average fisherman should replace his line every year, unless he has done very little fishing. The hard fisherman who is on the water virtually every week, should check his line frequently and probably replace it more often.

When line is stripped off the reel along a streambank or beach, it should not be tossed in the water or left on shore. Nylon degrades very slowly, so discarded lines become a litter and a nuisance around fishing grounds. Take it bak to camp and put it in a garbage can.

Lacrosse standout heads east again

Dan Green has an ambition—to play on two consecutive Minto Cup champion teams.

The 20-year-old Victoria product will leave here on Saturday for another season with Peterborough PCOs of the Ontario Lacrosse Association Junior "A" League and he's confident the club can repeat as national champions again.

Green, a former member of Victoria McDonald's Junior "A" squad, scored 45 goals and added 53 assists in his rookie season with the PCOs, who won the OLA championship and defeated Burnaby Cablevision in four straight games of the best-of-seven Minto Cup championship series.

Green, the only western player in the league last season, will attend training camp for two weeks in preparation for the OLA Junior "A" opener against Oshawa on April 27.

Courtenay net entries close on Thursday

Entries close Thursday for the second major tournament of the Vancouver Island Lawn Tennis Association season — the First Chance event, Saturday and Sunday at Courtenay.

Most of the top-ranked players on the Island are expected to compete in the tournament, which will consist of both "A" and "B" events in men's and women's singles and open doubles.

After one tournament this season, Marty Taylor leads the men's singles division while Barbara Johnston, professional at the recently-opened Indoor Tennis Centre, heads the women.

Doubles teams are also being ranked this year for the first time.

In VILTA league matches on the weekend, Racquet Club moved to the top of the Men's "A" division with a 6-2 win over Oak Bay; Oak Bay downed Island Indoor, 6-2; Beacon Hill trounced Langford, 8-0, in "B" division play and the Oak Bay "B" team topped Saanich, 7-1.

Racquet Club leads Oak Bay by a single point in the "A" Division and has a one-point edge on Beacon Hill and Oak Bay in "B" play.

Oak Bay and the Racquet Club each have two points in the women's "A" division while four teams — Langford, Oak Bay, Beacon Hill and Saanich are tied for top spot in Women's "B" competition.

Russians top Czechs

MUNICH, Germany (AP) — Russia's hockey machine defeated Czechoslovakia, 5-2, Tuesday, taking a major step in a bid for its 14th world amateur hockey title.

In an exciting match of the co-favorites, highlighting the first round of the Group A tournament, Russia, the defending champion, outskated their rivals in the second and third periods displaying an awesome offensive assault.

Alexander Yakushev led the Russians with two second-period goals, his sixth and seventh of the tournament and took over the lead in the individual goal-scoring race.

Sergie Kapustin, Boris Petrov and Valery Kharlamov also tallied for Russia. Boruslav Statstny gave Czechoslovakia a 1-0 lead in the first period and Jiri Holik scored the other goal.

Approximately 5000 exiled Czechs in the capacity crowd of 10,000 filling the Olympic Sports Hall signalled their disapproval of the Russian victory with a mighty chorus of whistles as the winning country's flag was raised in the post-game ceremonies.

The result was a major disappointment for the Czech team, which had beaten the Russians three times in a row in Prague to win the Izvestia Cup last month and was slightly favored to win here.

It was the fourth Russian victory in first-round competition, while the loss was the first for the Czechs after three straight wins.

The teams will meet again in Dusseldorf in the second round next Thursday.

In another game Tuesday, a goal by Mats Ahlberg in the third period gave Sweden a 1-0 win over Finland before more than 8000 fans.

Victory boosted Sweden in to second place, while Finland is fourth with a 2-2 record, United States and Poland are both 0-4.

Sweden has six points after four games, the same as Czechoslovakia but is awarded second place on the basis of goals-for-and-against average. Sweden has scored 20 and allowed only five, while Czechoslovakia has scored 20 and allowed 10.

Lions' sale opposed

VANCOUVER (CP) — Directors of British Columbia Lions say they won't want the Canadian Football League club to go into private ownership.

The statement was made at a news conference at which the directors discussed a proposal to purchase the club by Lions '75, a group headed by Herb Capozzi, a former general manager of the team.

Lions president Bill McEwan made public resolutions the directors plan to submit to the membership meeting next Monday which vote on the offer.

They include expanding the board of directors to 12 from nine with the additional three coming from the members themselves.

Another resolution would set annual dues at $25 if the 2100 members do not hold a season's ticket. Otherwise the membership fee would be $5. There were 800 members who did not hold season's tickets in 1974 when the Lions registered a deficit at the gate.

Pincay keeps jockey title as Santa Anita meet ends

ARCADIA, Calif. (UPI) — Move Abroad staged a front-running victory Tuesday to capture the $33,000 Santa Ana Handicap for fillies and mares, the closing day feature of the highly-successful Santa Anita meeting.

Despite finishing last in the fiekl of six with Belle Marie, Laffit Pincay Jr., captured his sixth straight riding championship when he took the second and third races to give him a lead of five winners over Bill Shoemaker.

Pincay missed most of the month of March after suffering a broken collarbone. He returned to competition only last week.

For the first time in its 40-year history, Santa Anita passed the two million mark in attendance for a meeting and the wagering was up approximately nine per cent despite bad weather on several weekends.

In the closing day feature, jockey Sandy Hawley had Move Abroad on the lead by the time the horses passed the stands for the first time.

Going down the backstretch, Victorian Queen moved up to challenge the victor, but then was overtaken by the entry of Joli Vert and Bold Ballet, which finished second and third.

Racing moves to Hollywood Park with the $30,000-added Premier Handicap the feature of Friday's opening:

Soccer's 'The Doog' retiring

LONDON (AP) — Derek Dougan, Wolverhampton Wanderers striker and one of the most popular men in British soccer, has played his last game.

"The Doog," 36, decided to retire at the end of this season and Wolves manager Bill McGarry, unable to find him a place on the first team, said: "OK, that's it. I won't ask you to play in the reserves. You deserve to go out at the top."

Dougan, chairman of the Professional Footballers' Association and a participant in 43 international games for Northern Ireland, has an 18-season career with Portsmouth, Blackburn, Aston Villa and Leicester.

Landers' suspension lifted

CAMBRIDGE, Ont. (CP) — The Ontario Fastball League has revoked a one-year suspension of star pitcher Peter Landers.

Pat O'Day, league publicity director, said the seven league governors who voted to suspend Landers last month lifted the suspension after an appeal by lawyer Terry Kelly of Oshawa, acting on behalf of the pitcher.

Landers was suspended for signing a contract with Oshawa Tonys while he was the property of Hamilton Waxmen.

O'Day said lifting the suspension does not alter Landers' playing rights, traded to Hamilton last March by Toronto Globals.

Grexton and Cool head pin groups

Back at the head of the Victoria Tenpin Association is Joe Grexton, who was returned for his second term at the annual meeting. Elected president of the British Columbia Tenpin Bowling Association last month, Grexton confirmed Mayfair Lanes in Victoria will be the site of the 1975 provincial tournament. It will be held on the weekend of Nov. 8 and 9.

Other members of the Victoria association slate are Brian Grexton, first vice-president; Ed Turner, second vice-president; George Medland, secretary-treasurer; Phil Norton, assistant-secretary.

Bill Cool, who served a term as president of the Victoria Fivepin Association in 1966-67, succeeded Dennis Swonnell at the association's annual meeting and election of officers.

Other officers elected were Mike Thompson, first vice-president; Don Brown, second vice-president; June Peddlesden, corresponding secretary; Barb Hyde, recording secretary; and Janet Broste, treasurer.

The association's board of directors include Jake Jacob, Mike Bosmans, Brian Peddlesden, Arnie Cavanagh, Mike Kachanoski, Greg Campbell, Min Mann, Donna Brock, Brian Scherr, Bill Hammond, Lyn Hickey and Marg Vickery. Jacob was also named the manager of Victoria's entry in the Pacific Coast championships next month in Vancouver.

Region bargainers 'playing union off'

Capital Region municipal employers are trying to play one Canadian Union of Public Employees local off against another, CUPE representative Tom Smith charged Tuesday night.

Both sides in the long dispute are now probing to get a settlement, Smith said, but he warned employers involved with the regional bargaining group to bargain seriously and avoid playing one local off against another.

"It seems to me that that's what they're doing," Smith said.

The union will not refuse to bargain but he complained that few overtures are being made to outside workers.

"I hope the employers are not playing some sort of game," he said.

Victoria Mayor Peter Pollen has denied that overtures made to city inside workers indicate that they are being played off against outside workers who went on strike Jan. 27.

CUPE Oak Bay Local 511 president Alan Unwin will meet today with Mayor Brian Smith and the possibility of separate negotiations is on the agenda, following a growing trend by municipalities to bargain directly with their CUPE locals.

Esquimalt council voted Monday night to withdraw entirely from the regional bargaining group in negotiations with its locked-out employees.

Unwin said today's talks will be of a general nature to "see what avenues are open for a settlement."

Angry suspect smashes glass

A suspect in Tuesday's abduction and massive search won't be the only person to appear today in Victoria Provincial Court after questioning Tuesday in the adjacent police station.

A 32-year-old Victoria man is due to appear on a charge of wilful damage or mischief after the large wired-glass portion of a second-floor interview room was punched through in two places despite the presence of wire mesh throughout the thick glass.

The man was being interviewed in connection with other matters when the damage occurred — and at the same time as the abduction and search drama was beginning to build outside.

He was taken to the jail pending later completion of the investigation and the officers were called in to the search. They were not able to get back to their questioning until late at night.

No jar lid shortage

There will be an ample supply of canning jar lids for the summer.

Consumers Services Minister Phyllis Young gave this assurance in the Legislature Tuesday.

Kerr Mason, she said, do not expect to be able to supply B.C. but the province had sought out another supplier — Bernadin in Quebec.

"They felt they would be able to provide sufficient supplies if nobody hoarded.

"That is the message we are trying to get across to people — if you see them in the stores don't buy everything in sight, think of other people who need lids."

Ms. Young said that during the period of the shortage of lids she had been deeply distressed at the attitude of store managers who were afraid to order a few extra supplies because they might be stuck with a few at the end of the season.

"They think everyone wants jars," she added. "They don't want jars, they want lids, and they want wide-mouthed lids — but you try to get that across to a bunch of dumb-headed men . . ."

Ms. Young later withdrew her references to "dumb-headed men."

Sabotage in sewer system?

Saanich's sewer system is being sabotaged by a splinter group of the Canadian Union of Public Employees, Mayor Ed Lum said Tuesday.

Saanich crews have found eight plugs jamming the system at strategic points during the last three weekends — and backing raw sewage into basements and bathrooms of homes during the last three weekends, Lum said.

Most of the plugs were wire cages about two feet long stuffed with toilet rolls, rags or rocks, or simply sacks full of rocks, which had been carried down manholes. One plug worked its way through the system to the Arbutus treatment plant, but was found before it could damage the plant's shredding equipment.

The plugs were obviously placed by "someone who knows the system well," Lum said.

"I have been led to believe from some CUPE members that this sort of thing was discussed, but the majority wouldn't go along," he said.

Last weekend alone, 12 homes reported backed-up sewage. In one home, two or three inches covered a recreation room.

Lum himself worked with a crew to remove the toughest plug, one on Hobbs Road. It took seven days to remove. Plugs were also stuffed into manholes at north Shelbourne, Cadboro Bay, Garnet, and other points where individual homes would be damaged.

Shipyard men ask conciliation

A conciliation board is being established to deal with a contract dispute between the federal government and the Dockyard Trades and Labor Council representing about 800 Esquimalt shipyard workers.

The council, which also represents workers in Halifax, requested the Public Service Staff Relations Board to set up the conciliation board, which is still without a chairman.

Piracy charges heard in Greenpeace case

PARIS (UPI) — Canadian yachtsman David MacTaggart Tuesday accused a French admiral and seven sailors of piracy for a Pacific Ocean incident in which he was allegedly beaten while protesting French nuclear testing.

MacTaggart, 42, made the accusation in a court suit for damages from the French government. The punishment in France for piracy is death, according to a 150-year-old law.

The yachtsman charged Admiral Jean Claverie with ordering sailors to seize his 12-meter (39-foot) ketch, the Greenpeace II, when he sailed into a Pacific Ocean zone in 1973 that France had ordered cleared for atomic testing at Mururoa Atoll.

"On Aug. 15 we were stopped by a motor launch carrying seven men with truncheons," MacTaggart told the court. "I was knocked to the deck and thrown overboard. After this attack I was blind for a week and since then I have not been able to sail," he said.

MacTaggart, formerly Canada's national badminton champion and builder of the first Club Mediterranee resort in the United States, said photos taken by companion Annemarie Horn disproved the French navy's assertion that its sailors were not carrying any kind of weapons when they boarded MacTaggart's boat, then had it towed away.

Snowy Prairies get another blast

Canadian Press

Weather advisories remained in effect for southern and central Alberta and southern Saskatchewan Tuesday as a spring snowstorm dumped up to seven inches of snow, creating treacherous highway conditions, cutting power to several Saskatchewan communities, and forcing the closure of some schools.

A spokesman at the Regina weather office said, however, that the storm was expected "to peter out," with only snowflurries expected today.

He repeated a warning issued earlier by the weather office that road conditions were treacherous and caution was required by motorists.

"Temperatures are holding just below freezing across southern Saskatchewan, and will continue to do so tomorrow," he said. Wet snow and freezing precipitation, combined with the temperatures, have left "solid sheets of ice" on roads.

The public forecaster in Edmonton agreed that "the worst of it will be overwith today," but said he would keep the Alberta weather advisory in effect at least until Tuesday night.

"Timing is a problem. I wouldn't want to cut it off too quickly."

He warned that winds were "picking up, and making driving conditons pretty poor."

Edmonton city police estimated there had been between 35 and 40 minor traffic accidents Tuesday morning because of weather and road conditions, and RCMP at Stony Plain, just west of the city, said there had been two accidents involving school buses — one of them on a district road three miles from Stony Plain and the other on highway 16 four miles east of Spruce Grove. There were no injuries and in both cases the school buses were just beginning their run and had not yet picked up their passengers.

MP - pay bill back again

OTTAWA (CP) — A Liberal member of Parliament said Tuesday that higher salaries for MPs would safeguard the public interest in addition to providing fair pay for parliamentarians.

It is in the public interest to help MPs "resolve this conflict-of-interest situation with respect to setting their own remuneration," Mark MacGuigan said as the Commons resumed debate on the controversial salaries bill.

The government is proposing a one-shot 33 1-3 per cent increase that would bring the annual pay and allowance of MPs to $36,400. Also proposed is tying the salaries to the industrial wage index which presumably would provide automatic annual increases.

MacGuigan, applauded regularly by Liberals and Conservatives, said a formula is needed to put decisions on their salaries "at arms length" from MPs.

He said opposition by the New Democratic Party to adjusting Commons and Senate salaries annual according to the index is a hypocritical argument.

The indexing plan was introduced before Christmas when the government, faced with public opposition, backed down from its original proposal for a straight 50-per-cent increase. Ed Broadbent, NDP parliamentary leader, has said the wage index would provide for higher salaries by 1978 than the original proposal.

He reiterated Tuesday his stand that the one-third boost should apply only to the basic salary, now $18,000 and not the current allowance of $8,000. The consumer price index should be used rather than the wage index.

Broadbent said Government House Leader Mitchell Sharp had made a new proposal to get NDP support. But he would not give any details.

MacGuigan defended the use of the wage index, saying it allows reflection of a productivity increase but the consumer price index CPI does not.

Use of the wage index the result of all the negotiations across the country, taking only the same increases means MPs would "abide by as the average of all our constituents receive," MacGuigan Windsor - Walkerville said.

The 33 1-3 per cent proposal could be shown to be sensible by applying the wage index to the $24,000 total MPs voted themselves effective October, 1970, the time of their last increase.

UFAW requests search

Canadian Press

The United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union has sent telegrams to the federal ministers of defence and transportation demanding a full scale search for possible survivors of the fishing boat Lady Sylvia II that capsized March 16.

The union said in a news release it has asked the search to be undertaken between Estevan Point on the west coast of Vancouver Island and Cape Cook.

The union said the search should be held because of the recent discovery of a dinghy from the vessel. Tom Goshko and his two sons were aboard the boat and the union says they might have been wearing wet suits with oxygen equipment when the boat encountered difficulty.

Union president Homer Stevens said in the telegram that 25 years ago a fisherman with a broken leg, the survivor of another capsized craft, survived for 23 days in the same area.

Engineer napping before fatal crash

ZAGREB, Yugoslavia — An engineer and his assistant admitted Tuesday they were asleep at the controls of an express train that crashed on the approach to Zagreb railway station last August killing 153 persons.

Nikola Knezevic, and Stjepan Varga, both 42, told a district court, where they are charged with negligence, that they had dozed off through sheer exhaustion.

"We just dozed off," Knezevic said. "I didn't say that earlier because I wanted a thorough investigation to show what the real situation is on the railways."

The two men said they had worked more than 300 hours in August and that some engineers work up to 400 hours a month — which can keep them in the locomotive cab for 50-hour stretches.

More gas to drive, more die

CHICAGO (AP)—Traffic fatalities in the United States, which declined 17 per cent in 1974, are climbing again as many drivers return to patterns that prevailed before last year's gasoline shortages.

National Safety Council statistics for the first two months of this year show a 6-per-cent increase in traffic fatalities over 1974. January marked the first monthly increase from the previous year since October, 1973.

There was a 25-per-cent decline in the fatality rate from January to May, 1974, during the gasoline shortage, as motorists drove less frequently and slower.

Quiet neighborhood 'was like a battlefield'

By HUBERT BEYER
Colonist Reporter

"Okay, you guys, get back, get back," a desperate voice shouted at police officers from inside the house.

"I'm going to phone you, do you hear?" another officer yelled in the direction of the house at 1116 Leonard.

The normally quiet residential Fairfield neighborhood looked more like a battlefield Tuesday afternoon.

Police cars had blocked most of the adjoining streets.

Policemen, both in uniform and civilian clothes, were crouching behind trees, walls, house corners, and parked cars, their guns trained on the house.

At this point, the massive police hunt was about two hours old.

An estimated 50 policemen from the Victoria, Saanich, Esquimalt, and RCMP forces in numerous cars, vans and two helicopters were involved in the operation.

Guns everywhere at hostage home

all policemen who had surrounded the house were ordered to withdraw.

"Get back to the next corner," they were told by one of the officers, and slowly, they retreated under the cover of trees and cars.

Suddenly, all was quiet. The only ones left near the house were a Colonist reporter and photographer who had escaped the sharp eye of the police and were hiding in a doorway, just across the street from the house.

The group crossed the street, walking slowly toward a parked car — a green Austin.

Mrs. Smith and her daughter slipped into the car from the driver's side and the man followed, taking command of the steering wheel.

The car screeched away and the entire area exploded into a scene of hectic activity.

By WARREN CARAGATA
Colonist Reporter

When Cyn-Dee Nelson woke her mother up Tuesday morning screaming that there were "police all over the place," she was told she had been watching too much television.

As police cordoned off 1116 Leonard, where the gunman was holding Mrs. Smith and her children hostage, they took Ms. Nelson and her daughter out of their suite while it was searched.

Later, while the gunman was still in the Smith residence, Ms. Nelson and Cyn-Dee were allowed to return, where they sat on a couch listening to the man shouting and breaking windows upstairs.

"He sounded like he was nuts, and then he'd break some more windows — every window I looked out there was rifles pointing in — it was scary, I tell you."

After returning to her suite, Ms. Nelson loaded her rifle and cradled it across her lap as she heard, through the heating vents, the drama being played out above her.

"The rifle was loaded with more than one bullet and I would have used it too — when you're on your own, you need it to protect yourself — especially with nuts like that around.

"I was in here the whole bloody time. At least they could have left a cop with me," she complained.

"My nerves just shook — there sure are a lot of broken windows up there."

Cabbie 'stopped and bailed out'

Ron Colbert had heard Greater Victoria police had a big manhunt on when he picked up a fare at about 4:30 Tuesday afternoon at 703 Esquimalt but he didn't connect his young, long-haired customer with the dramatic affair.

He also didn't think any more about them when his fare, sitting beside him, kept giving him conflicting instructions on the route.

"I said make up your mind where you want to go," said 10-year Blue Bird Cabs driver Colbert, 62, of 3305 Lindwood.

"Then I was coming down Raynor and I saw the gun . . . then I saw the police at the bottom (at Craigflower). He pulled the gun and had it in his lap about a foot away from me and he said there was police down there.

"I said where, I didn't see any around. He told me to drive around them and I said I couldn't. I figured well, I couldn't just sit there and I was taking a chance one way or the other.

"So I stopped and bailed out. I ducked around behind the rear bumper. The police didn't seem to have any trouble arresting him."

After picking up his fare at an apartment building, Colbert was given an address on Alderman and travelled on Esquimalt and Mary to Skinner. The cab would then have gone along Craigflower to Alderman but a couple of turns were ordered and it wound up on Raynor.

It was travelling through an area which had been thoroughly searched by dozens of policeman since the manhunt target was last reported near Victoria West Park at about 1:25 p.m. And the same massive force was still scouring the area, checking cabs among its many duties.

Daniel Hopkins, 333 Raynor, one of the neighborhood children who saw the last moments of the chase, said he saw three police cars behind the cab as it moved slowly down Raynor. He said the fare appeared to be holding a gun to Colbert's head.

One or two cars already were stationed at the foot of Raynor and another joined them, increasing the blockade, as the cab approached. A fourth made the cutoff complete and police jumped out with revolvers and a shotgun drawn. The chase was over.

"Everything happened so quick," Colbert said later.

It was true. By 6:15, or 1½ hours after his escape, Colbert was doing one of his regular daily chores — delivering special mail to the newsroom of the Colonist.

Rehash of old ideas at cost of $34,500

By LORRAINE ATHERTON
Colonist Reporter

The Capital Region's secret hospital planning report is a $34,500 rehash of previous studies.

It recommends construction of a new Victoria General in the McKenzie - Trans - Canada Highway area, and the gradual phasing out of "antiquated" Victoria General.

And the new hospital should be built "as soon as possible, meaning immediately," to relieve pressure on other hospitals, says the report, prepared by Ronald McQueen of Agnew, Peckham and Associates of Toronto.

The recommendations for alleviating Greater Victoria's chronic hospital bed shortage are similar to those in another Agnew, Peckham report commissioned by the region in 1968.

The latest report predicts the region's current bed shortage of 125 will increase to 276 in 1981 and 369 in 1986. To take up the slack, a 400-bed hospital, with possibilities for 600 beds, should be built west of Douglas.

The present Victoria General would be extensively renovated and reduced to 200 beds, about half its present capacity, and operated in conjunction with the new hospital. McQueen warned that the hospital must not continue to operate at its current size. "The buildings must be totally updated . . . or totally replaced."

Moves should be made immediately to include representatives of Saanich and the western community (Sooke-Colwood- Langford-Metchosin) on Victoria General Hospital's board and to obtain a site, 20 to 30 acres, for the new hospital, McQueen suggested.

Victoria General, former St. Joseph's would remain as a community hospital for the downtown area with "first-class accommodation" and ambulatory care services.

McQueen stressed that the two hospitals must be operated by the same board and with the same medical staff, because the old Victoria General could not provide a quality range of services on its own if reduced to 200 beds.

The regional hospital planning commission has refused to release the latest report to the public for reasons ranging from: "It would serve no useful purpose," to "we need more time to study it."

Various hospital planning committees have been commissioning major regional studies since 1964.

Speech therapists end treatments at Sooke

Sooke - schoolchildren in need of a speech therapist will have to find transportation to the school board offices in future instead of getting treatment in school, the board has decided.

A therapist works in the district for 20 hours a week, but a great deal of teaching time is lost because of the time spent travelling between schools, therapist Lynn Robinson reported Tuesday.

"We had more and more children without any available transportation," she said.

"This arrangement of seeing children at school is not really satisfactory because the children are often not available due to school field trips or teachers professional days.

"A lot of the therapists time is wasted in travelling and the parents are not nearly as involved or interested."

Gati's job at stake in fight?

By JON FERRY
Colonist Reporter

Victoria Symphony Society directors will decide the future of colorful conductor Laszlo Gati at a meeting April 17.

But the apparent move by some directors to ensure that Gati goes after his contract expires June 1976 has been met by a strong pro-Gati lobby among members.

The lobby is headed by Nikola Pavelic, of 577 Ardmore Drive, on behalf of the Petitioner's Committee, a group of 99 symphony members who tried last year to hold a general membership meeting to air the controversy that has plagued the society.

Pavelic has sent a letter to the society's more than 1,000 members urging them to fill out a ballot and tell the directors whether they think Gati should remain conductor or not.

The letter claims that "Miss Ronahan (society president) and her supporters on the board are now planning to terminate Mr. Gati's contract with the society and to replace him with another conductor without giving the society's members the opportunity to express their opinion."

What also irks Pavelic's group is that the April 17 meeting will be closed — and that voting on Gati's continuance will be by simple majority and by secret ballot.

"It was determined that the decision would be by secret ballot, thus avoiding the necessity of individual board members having to declare themselves on a recorded vote."

However, board members contacted Tuesday maintained the vote on Gati's contract was merely a routine matter.

If they decided to dismiss Gati, 14 months' notice would have to be given, and this was why the special meeting was called before the next regular board meeting.

President Miss Madge Ronahan said a letter from the board would be sent to members in the near future.

But she refused to elaborate on the controversy. Was the symphony in financial trouble? "Isn't every symphony?" she replied.

Gati said he would likely have a statement to make within a few days.

Eight-years with the orchestra, Gati said it looked as though there was a move afoot to dislodge him but "I don't know exactly what it's all about."

He said he has never been "openly criticized" by the board and the symphony music was going better than ever.

CP sea era ends today

By JIM BRAHAN
Colonist Reporter

The last step in the decline of Victoria's status as headquarters of the once-big fleet of the Canadian Pacific's coastal service will be taken about 8:30 a.m. today as the Princess Patricia leaves Esquimalt Harbor and heads for Vancouver.

Victoria shipwatchers can get their last glimpse of the white hulled pocket liner with her two red funnels as she steams past the Dallas Road waterfront after leaving Yarrows shipyard where she was spruced up for her Alaskan cruises starting May 15.

A Yarrows official said Tuesday it is unlikely the 6,000-ton ship will be back this way because she is to be based at CP's pier B-C at Vancouver an dany future refitting will most likely be done at Burrard shipyard in North Vancouver.

The 25-year-old vessel, sister ship to the Princess Marguerite recently bought by the B.C. government, is scheduled to make 20 trips this tourist season between Vancouver and Alaska.

The Patricia arrived in Victoria June 10, 1949 and in 1962 she underwent a $1 million conversion to an Alaskan cruise ship.

She began her Alaska cruising in 1963 and during the off-season her winter berth was at the CPR docks in Victoria's Inner Harbor. The docks and waterfront property was also recently purchased by the province.

The CPR ships have bulked large on the Victoria maritime scene since near the turn of the century and when the Patricia pulls out of sight this morning, as far as Victorians are concerned, her name can be put into history along with the former princesses including Kathleen, Elaine, Louise, Mary, Norah, Joan, Elizabeth and Adelaide.

The only princess still operating between Vancouver Island and the Lower Mainland is the Princess of Vancouver.

Fresh rhubarb leads the way

It may be the craft renaissance or just the plain, simple facts of economy that have made everyone interested in "putting up" fruits and vegetables when they are plentiful and low in price.

One of the first of the year is fresh rhubarb, and it will be enjoyed in pies, cobblers and sauce, and will be "put away" as well.

The following recipes adhere to words of caution and call for processing in boiling water bath to protect the quality of homemade jams.

RHUBARB CONSERVE

2 cups 1½-inch sliced rhubarb
1 cup seedless raisins
1 tablespoon grated orange peel
2 medium oranges, sectioned
3 cups sugar
1 quart sliced strawberries
¼ cup chopped walnuts

Combined rhubarb, raisins, orange peel and sections with sugar and let stand several hours or overnight in a cool place. Add strawberries and bring slowly to a boil, stirring occasionally until sugar dissolves. Cook rapidly until thick, about 25 minutes.

As mixture thickens, stir frequently to prevent sticking. Add nuts the last five minutes of cooking. Pour hot, into hot jars. Adjust cups. Process 10 to 15 minutes. Yields about eight half pints.

RHUBARB JAM

3 cups strawberries
3 cups diced rhubarb
6 cups sugar

Mash strawberries. Cut rhubarb into ½-inch pieces. Combine and mix. Add 4 cups sugar; bring to a rolling boil for four minutes.

Add two cups sugar and boil four minutes. Pour into hot jars. Adjust lids at once and process in boiling water bath at 212 degrees F. for five minutes. Remove from canner and complete seals unless closures are self-sealing type. Makes 2½ pints.

Mines seek women

WHITEHORSE, Y.T. (CP) — Mine operators are hoping the introduction of women to underground jobs might alleviate labor shortage problems in the Yukon mining industry.

Women now are permitted to work underground here following an amendment to the mines safety ordinance by the territorial council two weeks ago.

Vern Smith, acting manager of United Keno Mines, 300 miles north of here, and Vic Jutronic, manager of Whitehorse Copper Mines, said their companies would accept applications from women.

Both said women might help with labor shortages but there might be a problem with toilet facilities.

Smith said United Keno is not going to mount a recruitment campaign to bring in women.

He said acceptance of women as miners would depend on their ability to handle the heavy physical work involved.

Smith said many men quit after finding within a few days that mining is not the place for them.

Another problem, he said, is accommodation.

ann landers

Dear Ann Landers: Several years ago, when I was in high school, I took a razor and shaved off my eyebrows. It was a crazy thing to do, but I always admired girls with thin pretty eyebrows and mine were heavy, so I decided to remove my own and paint new ones on.

They didn't grow back completely, but through the years the lack of eyebrows never bothered me. Now, at the age of 33 I find myself obsessed with this flaw in my looks. My left eyebrow isn't bad. With a few strokes of a pencil, I can make it look fairly decent. But my right eyebrow is a disaster. I have exactly ten hairs over that eye and I just can't pencil in a natural-looking brow to save my soul.

I've tried hiding it behind glasses. I've worn an eyepatch. Once I even tried gluing strands of hair from my head. Nothing works. Do you have any ideas? I am — Mizzzzerable.

Dear Mizz: Your problem is in your head, not over your right eye. People don't pay that much attention to your eyebrows. Honest they don't.

Go to a professional makeup salon and take a lesson or two on how to use the eyebrow pencil. Follow the instructions and resolve to live with the results.

Dear Ann Landers: While waiting for a bus one day about two years ago, I became involved in a friendly conversation with a pleasant-looking woman. We met there quite often and spoke of our mutual interests, husbands, work, and we showed one another pictures of our children. She was especially impressed with my son.

Several months ago the boy was killed in an auto accident. Needless to say I was very depressed and I couldn't speak of it to anyone outside the family. On several occasions since the boy's death I have encountered this woman at the bus stop and she always asks about him. Of course she has no idea he died and I haven't been able to tell her.

It hurts me when she brings up his name but I don't know how to tell her he is gone. How can I, without making her feel terrible? Please give me some advice. — Speechless.

Dear Friend: Write down these two simple sentences and rehearse them. "I'm sorry to tell you that my son was killed in an auto accident several months ago. I should have told you sooner, but I couldn't bring myself to speak of it."

The next time the woman mentions the boy's name, repeat those two sentences and get that difficult chore behind you.

Old-age pensions go to 1,892,454

OTTAWA (CP) — There were 1,892,454 recipients of the old-age security pension in December, 1974, and nearly two-thirds of them received a guaranteed income supplement, welfare department statistics tabled in the Commons show.

Average guaranteed income supplements paid in December, 1974, were $66.48. The basic old-age pension was $117.02 then but has since increased to $123.42 due to increases in the cost of living.

There were 14,972 old-age pensioners living outside the country in December, the figures show.

Flowers shower Sills at the Met

NEW YORK (UPI) — Beverly Sills, at 45 the most acclaimed American soprano on the international operatic scene, made her belated debut with the Metropolitan Opera Monday night and the audience showered her with silver confetti, flowers and shouted "bravos."

It was one of the most historic occasions in the 90-year history of the Metropolitan, attended by many celebrities and Met stars, present and past.

Miss Sills has been the stellar attraction of the Met's Lincoln Centre neighbor, the New York City Opera, for almost a decade and at long last made the big step next door to sing Pamira in Rossini's The Siege of Corinth.

Orchestra seats sold at $60 a ticket plus $40 more for a midnight supper dance in the opera house.

The debut had been in the planning for three years since the late Met general manager, Goeran Gentele, had offered Miss Sills the major roles denied her by his predecessor, Sir Rudolf Bing.

Gentele's successor, Schuyler Chapin, was all smiles as he conducted her back to her dressing room after a 20-minute final ovation which glittered with a reign of confetti and flowers from the balconies.

"It was really a great night," Chapin said. "I wish it had taken place a while ago."

M. V. Chesnut's Garden notes

"Dear Ches: I have been most interested in your series on how to get the lawn off to a good start, but I DO wish you would write something on how to get rid of weeds.

"Our grass isn't too bad, but there are quite a few weeds in it and I propose to treat it with a weedkiller. What I can't figure out, though, is the timing.

"Do I spray the weeds first, before feeding the lawn with fertilizer? Should the fertilizer go on first, or can they both be applied at the same time?"

* * *

This letter brings up a most interesting point, and especially the last part asking whether fertilizer and weedkiller can be applied simultaneously.

These are the days of the ready-mixed "convenience" products touching everything from concrete to breakfast foods — instant tea and coffee, instant rice and oatmeal, prepared cake mixes, frozen TV dinners, pre-glued floor tiles and the like, so it is only natural that the manufacturers of garden chemicals should figure out a way to feed the lawn and kill the weeds all in one go.

Every garden shop nowadays stocks a type of lawn fertilizer which has been fortified with weedkiller chemicals in granular form. Just sprinkle the stuff on the grass and both jobs are done.

* * *

As an incurably lazy gardener, such labor-saving methods are ordinarily right down my alley, and these fertilizer - weedkiller mixtures really do work.

However, I don't think they work quite so well as separate applications, so in spite of the extra work involved, my personal preference is to feed the lawn first, spreading the fertilizer about two weeks in advance of the 2,4-D weedkiller application.

* * *

At first thought, this may seem completely cockeyed. Why waste fertilizer feeding unwanted weeds? Why build them up and make them strong before attacking them? Wouldn't you get a better kill if the weeds are sprayed while still in an undernourished condition?

The answer is a most definite NO, and to understand this, you should have some idea of how weedkiller chemicals work.

First, you should know that weedkillers cause susceptible plants to grow themselves to death, and anything that speeds up this growth will assist the process.

* * *

Second, it is important to remember that the weedkiller chemical must be absorbed through the leaves, not the roots, hence the greater expanse of leaf surface exposed to the spray, the better the kill. Moreover, a lush, sappy, fast-growing leaf absorbs more weedkiller than small, undernourished, leathery foliage.

The trick, then, is to feed the lawn generously in the spring to encourage lush green growth in both grass AND weeds, then hit the weeds when their leaves are big and sappy.

* * *

Given reasonably warm weather and sufficient moisture, the effect of a spring fertilizer dressing should be noticed in about a week — a general greening up of the whole lawn.

After two weeks, both grass and weeds should be in the first flush of exuberant growth, and the weeds in particular will be tender and lush, with wide-open pores and in a most receptive condition for a knock-out punch.

Sprayed or sprinkled in this condition, the weedkiller is taken into the plant's bloodstream and passed on down to the roots, killing them.

* * *

In mixing your weedkiller solution, don't be tempted to make it up stronger than the dosage recommended on the label.

It is a common human failings to think that if a little is good, a lot must be better, but if you are tempted to add an extra spoonful of weedkiller concentrate to your sprayer, remember that a too-strong solution will kill the leaves TOO quickly, before they have time to pass the chemical on down to the roots.

With only the topgrowth killed, the roots escape to sprout again later in the season, and you have the whole miserable job to do all over again.

WASHINGTON — Something is happening in Washington. For the first time newspapermen are becoming more famous than the people they write about. I don't know if you can credit Spiro Agnew or the Nixon White House gang for the trend, but it's having a tremendous effect on the business, and some journalists are finding it difficult to handle their celebrity status.

As soon as Burt Brillo broke the story on the break-in of the Wesley Heights Taco Hut, he was besieged by other reporters wanting to do profiles on him.

Brillo, who happened to be a police reporter at the time, achieved stardom overnight by discovering that the Taco Hut had been used by the CIA to feed their midnight-to-8 a.m. shift.

* * *

While this in itself would have been enough to make it a front-page story, a source whom Brillo has yet to name leaked the fact that two of the employees of the Taco Hut had entered the United States illegally from Mexico.

It was luck plus perseverance that made Brillo the most talked about man in Washington.

Besides getting a book contract to write the story of how he broke the story, Brillo was also signed up for a lecture tour and was interviewed by Barbara Walters, Mike Douglas, Dinah Shore, Merv Griffin and Johnny Carson — all on the same day.

Through his press agent I managed to get an interview with Burt in his ranch house overlooking Capitol Hill. The press agent warned me I could only spend 30 minutes with him as Women's Wear Daily was going to take pictures at five o'clock.

I didn't know what to expect when I rang the doorbell, but I was pleasantly surprised to find Brillo a warm, sensitive human being who hadn't allowed all the adulation to go to his head.

We sat by the swimming pool and a Japanese manservant brought us gin and tonics.

"Most people," he said, "think that newspapermen are different. But actually I'm just like anyone else except I live better and pay more taxes. Sure, I was lucky in the Taco Hut break-in, but I find in this business you're only as good as your next story. That's why I'm being very careful what I choose for my next assignment.

"Oh, I've been offered lots of reporting jobs, but they're all junk — bank robberies, embezzlements, espionage trials and even a war or two. But I'm not about to rush into anything. I have to think of my future."

* * *

"Mr. Brillo, there was a rumor that Omar Sharif was going to play you in the movies. How do you feel about that?"

"Omar tried to buy the story, but I don't think he'd be right for it. I told the producers if they could get Al Pacino or Steve McQueen, I would be interested. I don't want to make the error Woodward and Bernstein did by having two nobodies like Robert Redford and Dustin Hoffman portray them. Most police reporters make the mistake of selling their stories without casting approval."

"What's the toughest thing about being a successful newspaperman?" I asked.

"The lack of privacy. I can't go out to the store without being mobbed by my fans. Of course, they're the people who made me and I shouldn't complain, but sometimes I wish I was back to being just plain Burt Brillo again, covering the police beat on the lobster shift."

"What investigative reporter isn't? But after a while the thrill wears off and you wish you could find someone who would love you for yourself and not just because you're the author of the Taco Hut story."

* * *

I apologized for keeping him so long.

Four male representatives in the Iowa legislature have introduced a bill that would allow married couples to use either the husband's or the wife's surname, or a combination of both, for legal purposes.

A wife could retain her maiden name, if she chose, or a husband could adopt his wife's name, if he preferred it to his. Perhaps the upper-class British custom of hyphenating family names might come into use, like the Sackville-Wests of literary fame.

The only case I knew of in which a husband and wife combined names was that of Raymond Swing, the excellent radio commentator of a few decades ago.

When he married Betty Gram, he changed his name to Raymond Gram Swing, and was thus known during his long professional career. (Alas, they were divorced after 20 years or so, and he reverted to plain "Raymond Swing," which somehow lacked the former ring of authority.)

Actually, at the beginning of history, there were no family names, only clan names. After the fall of the Roman Empire, clan names fell into disuse, and the modern kind of family names did not arise until the 12th century, when Italian aristocrats began to make use of them. (William the Conqueror had no family name, and he was not ashamed to call himself "William the Bastard.")

Our name problem doesn't exist in Latin countries, where they often combine the paternal and maternal family names—such as Jose Ortega y Gasset, the finest Spanish writer of our time. In this way, the maternal line is carried along through marriage, and not lost, if there happen to be no sons to carry it on.

The real stickler we would face in removing the domination of male surnames in marriage, and giving the wife's name equal billing, is with our unprecedentedly high divorce rate. Names have value and meaning only in a stable social order, where people get married and stay married.

With our high divorce rate, chaos and consternation would shake our whole legal, fiscal, and parental worlds if couples had to uncouple joint names every few years.

Children already bear enough of a burden when their parents divorce and remarry; under the Iowa free-for-all system, it would be hard to keep track of anybody without a scorecard.

It is not far-fetched to imagine that in the discernible future our only true legal identity will reside in a government-given number, which will be permanent and irrevocable; and that all other names will be considered as nicknames or pet names or diminutives.

When a number takes another number to be his lawfully wedded wife, divorce may part the couple, but only death will do away with the number.

James Bacon's Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD — In 30 seconds Mike Douglas destroyed my whole image on national TV but it was worth it. It didn't hurt the fabulous contributions — more than $3 million — for the Easter Seals telethon.

I was invited on the telethon to do a little repartee with Lucie and Desi Arnaz. Talking I can do but it never came off.

Marty Allen grabbed me and soon there we all were on camera — Marty, Mike, Mitzi Gaynor, Tony Orlando, Scatman Crothes, Poupee Boucar and me — all singing The Best Things in Life Are Free.

All of a sudden, Mike hands me the mike and says take a few bars solo. Do you know what a shock that is?

A singing debut on television for a guy who has a voice good only for cooling soup?

Mike was very kind afterwards. He said: "You've got a lot of guts."

Mike flew all the way from Philadelphia and even brought along his own producer, Woody Fraser, just to do the telethon.

He worked late Saturday night, early Sunday morning and all of Sunday afternoon and was back in Philadelphia in time to tape his own TV show early Monday morning.

Mike, Marty and Tony Orlando turned the show into a party and gave it a spontaneous entertainment atmosphere that so many of these shows lack. The huge response from the public resulted.

Scatman, now a regular on Chico and the Man, showed us all what a great nightclub entertainer he is. He's been playing the honky tonks for years and now he's making it big on TV.

"The race goes not to the swift," says Scatman, "it goes to us who endureth — Yeah!"

The Jim Buckuses are one of the Hollywood couples who go through life giving surprise birthday and anniversary parties for each other. They have been married for over 30 years and neither one has caught on yet.

Latest was Henny's birthday. Jim gave her his annual story that he was too broke to toss a party. She bought it.

So he takes her to dinner at the Bistro. Well, you know the answer. All her friends — like the Perry Laffertys, the John Aylesworths, Ann Miller and Henry Berger, the Larry Israels and a dozen more — sing "Happy Birthday" as she walks in.

Backus gives a hint why Henny falls for this gag each year.

"Last fall, Henny and I were driving through a beautiful college town in Texas. It was dusk and we were on Fraternity Row. Each house had a neon sign with its Greek letters.

"Henny said: 'Oh, look. Isn't that cute? Everybody has his cattle brand in lights.' "

Blakeney urges fair split of higher gas take

OTTAWA (CP) — Saskatchewan Premier Allan Blakeney said Tuesday any increase in natural gas revenues for Alberta and British Columbia should be included in calculation of equalization payments to poorer provinces.

Current proposals before Parliament would exclude two-thirds of higher oil and gas revenues in the formula. The calculation determines payments by the federal government to seven "have-not" provinces, including Saskatchewan, to bring their revenue up to a national average.

Saskatchewan, which produces oil but not gas, feels that all the higher gas prices but only one-third of oil income should be considered in determining the payments. This would tend to prevent Saskatchewan from losing equalization benefits.

Alberta and British Columbia will push for higher prices for gas at the federal-provincial energy conference which starts today. They argue gas is undervalued relative to other fuels at its current price of 44.5 cents a thousand cubic feet.

With oil currently selling at $6.50 a barrel, the price for an equal amount of gas should be $1.20 a thousand cubic feet in terms of energy equivalent, industry spokesmen say.

Blakeney said he can understand why only one-third of oil revenues are included in equalization calculations. The remainder does not apply.

Canadians already are getting their oil well below the world price of $10 or more a barrel. They did not also need to get higher equalization payments that would result from including all the oil revenue increase in setting equalization payments, he said. The benefit of lower domestic oil prices offset the increased amount of payments that would result to poorer provinces.

However, with no similar two-price system for gas sold domestically or internationally, "there is no such rationale for excluding natural gas increases," Blakeney said.

Meanwhile, spokesmen for the finance and energy departments left little doubt Tuesday that the federal government will seek higher prices for oil and natural gas at the energy conference.

Speaking at a briefing for reporters covering the two-day conference, the government spokesmen also agreed it is reasonable to assume the new prices will have to be known by the end of May when Finance Minister John Turner brings down a new budget.

Turner's budget would have to take into account new energy prices to replace the $6.50-a-barrel price tag now on crude oil. The $6.50 price is to expire June 30.

If the federal and provincial government leaders are unable to agree on a new price this week, Ottawa is expected to press Parliament for passage of a bill now before the Commons allowing the federal government alone to set prices on oil and natural gas.

The officials did not reveal just how much of an increase the federal team led by Prime Minister Trudeau will go along with.

But they did outline the benefits an increase would bring.

They said higher oil prices would put a damper on demand for the fuel. A $1-a-barrel increase could mean a two-per-cent drop in demand, they said.

Higher prices also would encourage exploration and development of frontier and tar sands oil, they said.

1 BIRTHS

ALLEN — Mr. and Mrs. Brian Allen (nee MacDonald) are proud to announce the arrival of Brad Elliot, weight 9 lbs. 10 ozs. Special thanks to Dr. D. Smith and staff of maternity of Victoria General.

8 CARDS OF THANKS

I wish to express my sincere thanks to the many friends, relatives and all others for their help and kindness shown at the loss of a dear husband and father, Dennis Gardner. Deep appreciation to all for the lovely flowers, cards, kind words and donations. Special thanks to Rev. Hugh M. Hunter for his comforting words then and the children at home and his very kind message at the funeral and graveside. A very special thanks to Don and Linda Henson, Wayne and Lynn McKay, Ray and Sherry Crain, George Vickery and close friends who were with me at my time of greatest need. Also my deepest gratitude to the pallbearers and Sands Memorial Chapel.
Karen, David, Sherri and Jamie Gardner.

9 IN MEMORIAM

McCLURE—In loving memory of Mother, Susan Agnes McClure, who passed away April 9, 1962, and Dad, John Allison McClure, who passed away May 22, 1950.
—Always remembered and sadly missed by their daughter, son-in-law and granddaughter.

THEY SHALL GROW NOT OLD, AS WE WHO ARE LEFT GROW OLD. AGE SHALL NOT WEARY THEM, NOR THE YEARS CONDEMN. AT THE GOING DOWN OF THE SUN AND IN THE MORNING, WE WILL REMEMBER THEM.
—WITH GRATITUDE, SANDS.

Who watches Canadian TV? There are some in Canada who say everyone should, whether by force or choice. Let them and everyone else consider some figures from a most reliable source.

B.C. Television (Channel 8 in Vancouver and Channel 6 in Victoria) said last week that 36 per cent of viewers in Vancouver with cable watch Canadian stations on weeknights while 64 per cent watch U.S. stations. Without cable, it's 56 per cent Canadian and 43 U.S.

The only reason the non-cable figure is that high is weak U.S. signals. Given the choice of all channels normally seen in the area (and Vancouver is 90 per cent cable), almost two-thirds pick U.S. programs. And how many of the shows on Canadian stations are U.S.

BUREAU OF USELESS INFORMATION: Tuesday's answer — The 1939 MGM idealism movie Mr. Smith Goes to Washington starred James Stewart, with Claude Rains as the nasty southern senator, while the 1962 TV series based on the movie starred Fess Parker. Which may explain why it flopped.

Today's question — One of my favorite movie comedies in my childhood was Robert Donat's charming Scottish fable The Ghost Goes West, made in 1936. All you have to do is identify the actor who played the American and the actress who was his daughter. Answers Thursday.

"Now the announcer is green and the Krispy Krackles are polka dotted, but the milk is still striped."

Wednesday highlights

SPECIAL: The CBC expects to show the federal-provincial meeting in Ottawa from 6:30 to 9:30 a.m., then from 11:30 to 2:30 p.m. Probably on Channels 2 and 6. Channel 11 might have an NBA basketball game later.

3:30 p.m. — ABC Afterschool Special tells the story of Cyrano in animation form — 4.

7:45 — One major fund-drive special from PBS tonight is a lonely-women drama Ladies of the Corridor, with Cloris Leachman — 9.

8:00 — A CBC "themed evening" on Atlanticanada contains 2½ hours of drama, documentaries, music, etc., on the Maritimes — 2, 6.

8:30 — Bob Aylward with It's Your Dime — 10.

Wednesday movies

12:00 noon — Los Tarantos (missable 1964 Spanish soaper), Carmen Amaya. That's Amaya, as in Victoria could use one — 11.

12:45 — Gypsy Girl (1966 Hayley Mills finds love). Big deal; first time I found love, it wasn't a gypsy, just a gyp — 8.

2:30 p.m. — Secret Mission (ancient 1944 war epic, for nostalgians only), James Mason, Stewart Granger. About my war service, it's a secret because the Allies still don't want anyone to know they had to take me — 5.

● 8:00 — Oliver (superb 1969 musical), Mark Lester, Jack Wild, Ron Moody, Oliver Reed, Shani Wallis. Consider yourself at home — 8.

8:00 — Saadia (sad 1954 sword-and-sandals stinker), Cornel Wilde, Mel Ferrer. This is not about that lousy drinker Saadia Budweiser — 11.

11:30 — I'll Take Sweden (1965 Bob Hope). I'll take a sleeping pill and I know Amaya who'll supply more — 12.

12:45 a.m. — Merry Monahans (1944 musical muff). The teen triumvirate of Donald O'Connor, Ann Blyth and Peggy Ryan puts on a show and a Broadway producer sees it and it's the Big Apple — 7.

2:10 — By Love Possessed (long, lousy 1961 Lana Turner soaper). I don't care if it came from a best-selling book, it's a Lana loser — 6.

2:10 — The Judge and Jake Wyler (faintly amusing 1972 TV pilot), Bette Davis, Doug McClure. Good night; Amaya be back tomorrow — 8.

Wednesday radio

1:30 p.m. — Five hours of CBC talent festival finalists' recitals to 4 p.m. and then 6:30 to 9 p.m. — CBU-FM 9105.7).

8:00 — CBC broadcasts a delayed Concern report on four Indians: a maharajah, an urchin, a retired hunter and a teacher — CBU (690).

● —Recommended.

SUPERB PROPERTY
CR ZONING—3.7 ACRES
3.7 usable acres with panoramic sea views throughout, long frontages on T.C. Highway and 2 secondary roads. Parks and beaches nearby, only 24 miles from Victoria, good water supply and that C.R. Zoning; these are only some of the value points of this highly desirable property. Presently operated as a lodge, the existing, approx. 90x30 main floor building has 3 levels of development. The lodge has 5 bdrms., 18x28 lounge, sunrm., 30x12 kitchen, dining rm. with access to 40-ft. long covered porch overlooking the sea, plus the usual reception desk entrance, office and storage facilities. There are also 3 completely self-maintained suites, 1 2-bdrm., 2 1-bdrm. This building is in good shape inside and out. The totally developable property has good landscaping. The outstanding potential for development in this highly desirable area makes the price low for land value alone. Appointments to inspect must be arranged in advance. Priced at only $173,000.

GORGE $48,500 QUALITY, PRIVACY, ECONOMY, APPEAL

If these criteria are important to you then you better view this lovely home before it sells — and it's going to sell quickly. 2 bedrooms on the main and one nicely finished in the full high basement. Large living room with lots of windows and a nicely located fireplace. When I say windows, you should see the dining room and kitchen. You'll be hard pressed to find brighter friendlier rooms. This should appeal to the economy minded — storm windows all around. Saving more than pennies in these days of high oil prices. The basement area is high, dry and bright — a delightful area for canning or a work shop. Exceptionally large backyard providing room for a vegetable garden or just lots of open space. Nestled in a quiet little street only one block long it's hard to find a more secluded spot. It was built in 1947, looks like it was built today, and it's bound to sell tomorrow.

SPENCER CASTLE RE-SALE Phase 1

Regretfully, my client must relinquish his beautiful home in this, the finest of Victoria's condominium apartments. A large 2 bedroom suite with 2 full bathrooms, one en-suite. Top quality carpeting, subdued vinyl wallcoverings, and expensive overdrapes that blend with most furnishings provide the perfect setting that is so necessary.
The suite is furnished with a full complement of major appliances, including in-suite laundry facilities. Adjacent to the kitchen is very large storage room just perfect for a freezer chest. Additional storage space is provided in the covered carport area.
A very attractive floor plan of 1,400 sq. ft. and definitely different from all others you may have seen. Included also are the Castle, the enclosed swimming pool and saunas, and extensive gardens.

Still no answer on BCR 'firing'

Two Social Credit MLAs failed Tuesday in an attempt to get more information on the rumored firing of John Trask as assistant general manager of the B.C. Railway.

James Chabot (Columbia) and Alex Fraser (Cariboo) pressed Economic Development Minister Gary Lauk on the matter, but Lauk would only say: "I told you yesterday that I could not and did not confirm his resignation."

When asked if any consideration was being given to finding a job for Trask in his department, Lauk answered with a terse "no."

Trask has not been available for comment for the past three days and Premier Barrett, president of the railway, and Attorney-General Alex Macdonald as well as Socred leader William Bennett, Conservative leader Scott Wallace and Liberal energy critic Pat McGeer are all in Ottawa for the first ministers' conference on energy.

MLAs also heard that the provincial highways department has no plans and no intentions of building a bridge between Mayne and Saturna Islands. Highway minister Graham Lea was first asked about the bridge-link possibility by Hugh Curtis (SC — Saanich and the Islands) during the question period in the Legislature Monday.

At that time Lea took the question as 'notice.

Tuesday he told the house that not only did his department have no plans for a bridge, but that to the best of his knowledge no other department in government was considering a Saturna-Mayne bridge.

Garde Gardom (L-Vancouver-Point Grey) asked Resources Minister Robert Williams if he had copies of the last year's operating statement of the Canadian Pacific regarding the operation of the Princess Marguerite.

Williams at first said the statement was the property of CPR.

Pushed by Gardom, the minister said his department officials did have copies of last year's operating statement.

Asked if he would table them in the house Williams bluntly stated "no."

Curtis then asked Williams if development of the 8.7 acres acquired from CPR's real estate arm, Marathon Realty, would take place in co-operation with the city of Victoria.

Williams answered that his department had always co-operated with city planners in the development of government-owned property on the Inner Harbor and would continue to do so.

Rosemary Brown (NDP-Vancouver Burrard) asked Labor Minister William King if he could explain to the house why unemployment was still rising in other parts of Canada but declining in B.C.

King said decreasing unemployment in B.C. was due directly to "direct employment" programs created by the government and to the confidence of business in the B.C. economy.

Chabot pointed out that unemployment had dropped in B.C. from 8.5 per cent of the work force to 8.4 per cent.

"Could the minister tell us if we have 103,000 people out of work or 102,000?" he asked.

King said he didn't have the latest unemployment figures at hand but added that he felt the figures quoted by Chabot were inaccurate. He said he would provide the adjusted and unadjusted figures at the next session of the house.

Gordon Gibson (L-North Vancouver-Capilano) asked King: "If you were unemployed would you rather be in the adjusted or the unadjusted category?"

King answered that the terminology was coined by the federal government and suggested that any changes Gibson wanted in the language should be directed to Ottawa.

New budget planned as jobless rate climbs

OTTAWA (UPI) — Finance Minister John Turner, faced with a 7.2 per cent unemployment rate and spiralling inflation, Tuesday announced he would bring down another budget before the end of May.

Statistics Canada reported Tuesday unemployment in March had climbed another 0.4 per cent to 7.2 per cent in March the highest since July, 1961.

Only B.C. and Manitoba recorded a drop in unemployment from the February figure — B.C. to 8.4 per cent from 8.5 and Manitoba to 3.9 from 4.1.

The statistics bureau Friday will release consumer price index figures for March which are not expected to show an easing in the inflation rate.

Turner told the House of Commons he would be drawing up a new economic growth forecast to replace the already-outdated one in his November, 1974 budget.

He said the new budget would be written "as early as I can . . . before the end of May."

The minister said, however, a number of factors had to be weighed before he could draw up a new forecast.

These included "the continuing character of the mix between the U.S. tax and energy policies," the results of the federal-provincial energy conference opening today, and the effects of prices and incomes discussions between the federal government and business and labor groups.

Turner said also he would include in his forecast an assessment of the world oil price and supply situation which he will be able to make following his trip to the Middle East next week.

Turner said his new budget will deal with the government's effort to arrive at a consensus on wage and income restraints. However, he will make public a progress report on the talks during the federal-provincial meeting later this week.

The new budget will have to deal with the twin problems of high unemployment and inflation, Turner told opposition finance critic Sinclair Stevens.

Despite the fact there are now 840,000 unemployed Canadians, Turner said there had been a 2.5 per cent increase in the number of new jobs created on a year by year basis.

He blamed the hike in the jobless rate, in part, on a 4.9 per cent increase in the size of the labor force.

March statistics showed unemployment for young persons between 14 and 24 moved up from 12.1 per cent to 12.7 per cent. For men over 25, it was up from 5.2 per cent to 5.4 per cent and for women over 25 years it was up from 4.1 per cent to 4.6 per cent.

Housing starts drop by half over a year

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition housing critics demanded Tuesday that the government take further steps to deal with the housing slump.

They were reacting to Central Mortgage and Housing Corp. figures showing that housing production in March was about half what it was last year at the same time.

A CMHC official said the low production rate raises questions about chances of reaching the government's minimum target of 210,000 starts this year.

Later Tuesday, Finance Minister John Turner told the Commons he will introduce a new budget in May. Along with low housing production, unemployment is at 7.2 per cent.

John Gilbert, housing critic for the New Democratic Party, said the CMHC figures indicate the "failure of the government programs to cope with the housing crisis."

"I would hope that the government will take active measures to deal with it."

— Colonist photos by Ian McKain

By BRUCE LOWTHER
Colonist Reporter

A quiet two-week search for a young William Head fugitive was transformed Tuesday into a seven-hour Greater Victoria drama with a car chase, exchange of gunfire, abduction of hostages, massive manhunt — and a happy ending.

A mother and her young daugher were severly shaken and many others were in danger but only one person received as much as minor injuries in a harrowing day for more than 50 Victoria, Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt policemen and RCMP as well as numerous civilians.

As the day ended, Victoria police were studying possible abduction and robbery charges against Daniel Bradley Cain, 19, who will appear this morning in Victoria Provincial Court on a Colwood RCMP charge of escape and being unlawfully at large.

At the same time, 27-year-old Mrs. Diane Smith of 1116 Leonard in the Fairfield area and her daugher Emily, 3, was recovering from the most danger-filled part of the day. And taxi driver Ron Colbert, 62, of 3305 Linwood, had gone back to routine work.

It was in Colbert's Blue Bird taxi that Cain was arrested about 4:45 p.m. at the foot of Raynor in Victoria West — only minutes after Victoria detective Constable Douglas Richardson had issued an emotion-packed appeal to Cain to give himself up.

One sentence in the appeal gave much of the background to a day unrivalled in tension in Victoria since a late-September day in 1970 when another young man robbed a bank, shot two Victoria policemen, and took hostages on his way up the Saanich peninsula and on to the U.S. by boat.

Said Richardson: "I want you to know, Danny, since you left William Head we've talked to most of your friends and your family and we all agree: turn yourself in and we'll have medical treatment for you."

Cain was sentenced late in 1974 in Victoria to two years for break-ins and thefts and was due for release in 1976. But on the night of March 22, police said, he left the William Head institution in Metchosin.

Staff-Sgt. Angus Stewart, acting head of the Victoria police detective division, said Tuesday Cain was known as a drugs user before his sentence. Other sources said police had been seeking Cain for questioning about some of 11 small-business holdups in Victoria and Saanich since March 22.

At 10 a.m. Tuesday, Oak Bay Constable Robert Faith was off duty and shopping in Gordon's Sporting Goods, 1030 Hillside, when he saw a youth who looked like Cain buying a box of shotgun shells.

Faith followed the youth, saw him get into a car parked nearby and got the licence number. He wasn't able to get to his own car to follow but immediately phoned the number to Victoria headquarters.

The car had been stolen Monday night in Esquimalt, not far from the Victoria West area where the suspect was arrested.

At about 10:55 a.m., Victoria Constables Peter Talavs and Rick Mitchell saw the car going south on Douglas near Bay. A chase at speeds of up to 65 miles an hour began on Bay and continued on Cal-

It's Oscar II for sequel Godfather

It was the first time that a sequel to an Oscar-winning film (1972) had itself gone on to win Hollywood's top award.

It's producer-director-writer Francis Ford Coppola won three of three Oscars, and his father, Carmine Coppola, was awarded an Oscar for his score.

Gunman's wild-eyed entry didn't affect 3-year-old

By JON FERRY
Colonist Reporter

There are some things it's better that a three-year-old girl doesn't understand.

And one of these is being taken for a ride with mother by a wild, scared, gun-toting individual who bursts into the house while you're playing with your toys and starts yelling and smashing windows.

But that's what happened Tuesday to Emily Smith, a cute, red-haired, blue-eyed bundle of a girl, and her mother, Mrs. Diane Smith, 27, of 1116 Leonard.

But both Mrs. Smith and her husband, Robert, a provincial government clerk, said after the ordeal that Emily — who sat on her desperate abductor's lap during part of a wild car chase across Victoria — remained unaffected by the incident.

"No, she didn't really know what was happening," said a tired, hungry but otherwise unharmed Mrs. Smith as she prepared to eat a well-earned supper.

Shortly after 11 a.m. Emily was playing with her toys and Mrs. Smith was doing her washing when she heard sirens and a rumpus outside.

"I thought it was a fire, I heard sirens," she told the Colonist.

Just then a wild-looking young man toting a gun burst into the Smiths' kitchen and took mother and daughter hostage, yelling to police outside he'd kill both if need be.

Sadie, the Smiths' four-year-old part-collie was so scared she rushed underneat the livingroom couch.

Mrs. Smith said, sure, she herself was scared but so was the intruder who "started to cry in the kitchen he was so scared . . . he didn't know what to do."

In his frustration at seeing police guns pointed at every window, he became angry and started smashing pane after pane of glass — and ordered Mrs. Smith and Emily upstairs with him.

Mrs. Smith said she thought the police crowded too closely around the house, terrifying the desperate intruder still further.

"I think they should have backed off a bit more," she said.

Mrs. Smith said her main concern was "trying to be on his side because I didn't want to get hurt; I didn't want Emily to get hurt."

She said the man appeared to be "a nice sort of guy" although scared into desperation.

He said he was thirsty and Mrs. Smith — who didn't realize her mistake till afterwards — offered him some Southern Comfort.

He drank a fifth of a bottle, Smith said.

And Mrs. Smith said she made her second mistake when she told the intruder about her car, a 1968 Austin 1100.

The result was that shortly after noon Mrs. Smith and Emily were bundled into the small, dark green car — and a nightmare chase across town began.

With police cars in its rear mirror, the little Austin, pushed on by its driver, swerved all over the road and Mrs. Smith feared for her life in what she described as the

150 B.C. children: No takers

By JIM HUME
Colonist Reporter

More than a thousand British Columbians have offered homes to Vietnam war orphans, but so far there are no adoption offers for 150 handicapped B.C. children.

Human Resources Minister Norman Levi made that announcement Tuesday as he pledged to continue to extend assistance but appealed for a cooling down of emotions.

Levi said it must always be remembered that "children are part of a family unit and only as a very last resort should they be removed from that family."

Levi reminded British Columbians that while their response to the plight of Indochinese war victims had been overwhelming "there are still 150 B.C. children, many of whom have severe handicaps, who are available for adoption by parents who feel they can cope with the extremely arduous task of raising these special children."

The minister said it was his hope that of the hundreds of families now offering homes to help children from overseas "there are some who will

Ford kept in dark

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senator Henry Jackson, Washington Democrat, said Tuesday that there were "secret agreements" between the United States and South Vietnam which had been hidden from Congress and — until recently — from President Ford.

Jackson said the agreements "envision fateful American decisions," but did not disclose what they entailed. Nor did he accept a challenge to make his knowledge available to the Senate.

"I know of no secret agreements," said Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield. "Every time we met with Mr. Kissinger after one of his visits and journeys overseas, that question was asked, and the answer always was no."

He said if there was substantial evidence of secret agreements, "I would expect the appropriate committees to look into the breaches of faith and trust."

In a Senate speech, Jackson said, "I have it on the best of information, the best authority, that secret agreements were reached" in connection with the Paris peace accords on Vietnam.

As for Ford, Jackson said, "I think he has only recently found out about these accords."

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen had no immediate comment on Jackson's charges and deputy press secretary John Hushen said later in the day "Our position is that we have nothing to say."

Jackson, an announced candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, said that while Ford had hinted Congress reneged on its commitments to South Vietnam, "the fact is that Congress is being accused of violating commitments and obligations it never heard of."

Jackson also said "obsessive secrecy" marked the SALT I negotiations, to the point where not even then defence secretary Melvin Laird and then secretary of state William Rogers were informed about two accords.

And Jackson said "crucial Soviet-American communications" bearing on the trade bill had still not been disclosed to Congress.

Trace elements indicat cancer

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The presence of four trace elements in human blood can be measured to indicate the presence of cancer, University of Rhode Island researchers said Tuesday.

Blood tests of 16 patients with diagnosed cases of advanced cancer showed abnormal levels of copper. cesium, cadmium and cobalt, researcher Dianne Zdankiewicz said in a paper prepared for the American Chemical Society's national meeting.

The copper level was found to be 60 per cent higher and cadmium 28 per cent higher than in a group of healthy subjects.

"Copper and cadmium are considered essential for human health. Perhaps because cancer is an uncontrolled growth,the body absorbs more of these elements to support the growth," Ms. Zdankiewicz said.

Her research with Earl Stromberg and Dr. James Fasching of the university's department of chemistry showed levels of cobalt and cesium were down about 25 per cent in the blood of cancer patients.

The researchers said they believed variations of trace elements in blood could be used for diagnosis and clinical purposes, perhaps to follow the progress of chemotherapy in cancer patients.

"There have never been accurate blood tests for trace elements before. Only in the past two or three years have we had the techniques to measure such minute amounts."

Chiefs sue U.K. for $53 million

LONDON (UPI) — A South Seas island chief sat quietly in a London court Tuesday to challenge the British government for a prize of $53 million and an island looking "not unlike the moon."

Tebuki Rotan, 74, wearing an unaccustomed white shirt and dark blue overcoat, was in court for the beginning of two lawsuits in which his 2,000 fellow citizens are asking for their island back.

Rotan is the spokesman for the original residents of Ocean Island, also called Banaba Island, a 1,500-acre speck of land in mid-pacific that held one of the world's richest deposits of phosphates.

Since 1920, a three-nation consortium led by Britain has ripped the heart out of Ocean Island in its quest for the mineral deposits, paying the Banabans a royalty.

The islanders are suing Britain for a total of $53 million, claiming that the royalty was too low for half a century. They are demanding that the miners make their island liveable again.

"The worked-out areas look not unlike the moon," said attorney John Macdonald, handing photographs to the high court judge hearing the two suits.

Macdonald said the suits were designed "to right the wrongs of 50 years." One of those wrongs, he said, was to move the Banabans to an island 1,600 miles away.

"The banabans have never given up their homeland," Macdonald said.

"They agreed to live on Rabi (the island in the Fiji group where they were resettled)) only because a solemn underaking was given by Her Majesty's government that they would be able to go back to Ocean Island and not lose any of their rights as land owners."

Bishop bars N.O.W.

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Catholics who publicly admit membership in the National Organization for Women, or any group that advocates abortion, will be refused communion in a four-county area of southern California, the bishop of the San Diego diocese has warned.

"No person who claims and professes views that are contrary to the teachings of the church can claim to be a practising Catholic, nor are they to be admitted to the sacraments," says a letter by Most Rev. Leo Maher. The letter has been sent to all parish priests in the diocese, who are required to read it to their congregations this Sunday.

The diocese covers San Diego, Riverside, San Bernardino and Imperial Counties. The bishop singled out N.O.W. for its "shameless agitation" on behalf of abortion, and said its members were guilty of "a serious moral crime."

"The issue at stake is not only what we do to our unborn children but what we do to ourselves by permitting them to be killed," the bishop wrote.

Laxton stifles Cougar punch as Bruins win series opener

By STAN COOPER

There is little wonder why Gordie Laxton has appeared in every game New Westminster Bruins have played this season in the Western Canada Hockey League.

It was obvious to 4074 fans at Memorial Arena on Tuesday when the husky goalkeeper backstopped New Westminster Bruins to a 3-1 win over Victoria Cougars in the opening game of the Western Division final.

Laxton, who set a WCHL record by logging 3980 minutes for the Royal City squad, turned in a spectacular performance, blocking every shot but one the highest-scoring team in league history fired his way.

The second game in the best-of-seven series will be played Thursday in New Westminster and the third is scheduled here Saturday.

Laxton finished with 41 saves, including 17 in the first period, and was particularly sharp in the middle period when Cougars held an edge in play.

The 20-year-old native of Montreal lost his shutout bid near the midway mark of the second period when Mel Bridgman connected for his eighth power-play goal of the playoffs, completing a smart passing play with defenceman Rick LaPointe.

It was one of the few times Cougars had command of the play while holding an advantage as Bruin-captain Barry Smith impressed the gathering which included about a dozen professional scouts with an amazing display of penalty killing.

Laxton held the Cougars out for the remaining time and the close-checking Bruins, who got a first-period goal from Mark Lofthouse, regained the lead when a bad lapse left Fred Berry with a clean breakaway.

And the former Cougar—he played one game here last season and was dealt to the Bruins during the summer in the three-way trade which brought Kim Clackson to Victoria—made no mistake with a wrist shot.

Cougars pressed for the remaining time but couldn't get many direct shots on goal and Smith capped the scoring with an empty-net goal in the final seconds.

Victoria-netminder Bob Leslie, who played well in making 30 saves, was pulled in favor of a sixth attacker but the Cougars lost the puck at mid-ice, leaving Smith a wide-open path to the net.

Bruins, who finished third in league play 14 points behind the champion Cougars, drew seven minor penalties, two more than Victoria.

And the fireworks expected of the two B.C. rivals failed to materialize as only one minor scuffle delayed the two hours and 15 minutes of end-to-end action.

Clackson and Bruin-winger Harold Phillipoff were tagged with minors following a high-sticking bout near the Cougar net but referee Ron Fournier, a National Hockey League trainee from Montreal, quickly hustled the combatants to the penalty benches before further trouble erupted.

Cougar-coach Pat Ginnell, forced to use only 18 players after Irv Bowles drew a one-game suspension for an incident in the semi-final series with Kamloops Chiefs on the weekend, juggled his lines in an attempt to get some scoring punch but the moves were unsuccessful.

The defensive combination played well in containing the faster-skating Bruins but the move appeared to weaken the cougars on offence.

In playoff action tonight, Regina Pats will attempt to wrap their Eastern Division semi-final series with Lethbridge Broncos. Pats play host to the Alberta squad and have a 3-2 edge in the best-of-seven affair which will decide the opponent for division-champion Saskatoon Blades.

Robinson homers in winning debut

In the lineup as a designated hitter batting second in the order, Robinson worked pitcher Doc Medich to a 2-2 count, fouled off three pitches, caught a fast ball and sent it over the left-field fence in the first inning. It was the 575th career home run for Robinson and the first player out of the Cleveland dugout to greet the manager at the plate was starting - pitcher Gaylord Perry, who has had differences with Robinson.

But the Indians battled back with Boog Powell, Robinson's teammate with Baltimore Orioles, providing the big hits. Powell tied the score with a fourth-inning home run, and his sixth-inning double, the third hit for the big first baseman, scored George Hendrick with what proved to be the winning run.

"I was extremely pleased by the way we won," Robinson said. "The guys came from behind and played together and that's what you have to do to be successful."

In another American League opener, Boston Red Sox downed visiting Milwaukee Brewers, 5-2, spoiling the debut of Hank Aaron in a Brewer uniform.

Aaron and Tony Conigliaro of the Red Sox received huge ovations when they were introduced and when they came to bat for the first time. Conigliaro was hit in the eye by a pitch in 1967 and had been out of baseball the last three-and-a-half years.

However, Conigliaro, Boston's designated hitter, helped his club with a hit-and-run single that sent Carl Yastrzemski to third base in the first inning. Yastrzemski then scored on the front end of a double steal.

Another designated hitter, Minnesota's Tony Oliva, blasted a home run and helped pitcher Ferguson Jenkins to an early shower as the Twins romped over Texas Rangers, 11-4, in Arlington. Oliva clouted a two-out homer off the Ontario-born righthander in the second inning with Lyman Bostock and Larry Hisle on base and it prompted manager Billy Martin to pull Ferguson, who went the distance 29 times last season.

Rookie second-baseman Phil Garner drove in two runs and Vida Blue combined with Rollie Fingers for an eight-hitter as Oakland Athletics started defence of the American League pennant with a 3-2 victory over visiting Chicago White Sox.

In the National League, a pitching duel between Tom Seaver of New York Mets and Steve Carlton of Philadelphia was ended in the ninth inning by Joe Torre's run-scoring single which produced a 2-1 victory for the Mets.

Nordiques trim persistent rivals

Phoenix Roadrunners lived up to their reputations as persistent hard workers Tuesday, but they couldn't overcome the goaltending of Richard Brodeur.

The 22-year-old netminder stopped 37 shots including 20 in the third period and sparked Quebec Nordiques to a 5-2 victory over the Roadrunners before 10,105 fans at Quebec City and a 1-0 lead in the best-of-seven World Hockey Association playoff quarter-final.

Roadrunners made it to the playoffs in their first year in the league by playing systematically and never quitting, but they fell behind, 2-0, after one period and 5-1, after two and found Brodeur too tough in the third period.

Michel Parizeau put Quebec ahead at 7:14 of the first period and Rejean Houle made it 2-0 at 17:37 with his first of two goals. Rob Ftorek got the Roadrunners to within a goal at 33 seconds of the second period, but Brodeur wasn't beaten again until 3:58 of the third period when rookie Dennis Sobchuk scored his first playoff goal.

The series continues Thursday at Quebec.

Two other series get underway tonight and the fourth, between Cleveland Crusaders and defending AVCO Cup champion Houston Aeros, starts Thursday at Houston.

Sonics trim Pistons

Seattle's solid defence and Detroit's early shooting jitters Tuesday night resulted in a 90-77 win for the SuperSonics over the visition pistons in the opening game of their best-of-three National Basketball Association playoff series.

Sonics jumped off to a 22-12 lead in the opening quarter when Detroit could hit on three of 21 shots. Seattle's scoring was led by Fred Brown, 23, Spencer Hayword, 22, and seven-foot-two Tom Burleson, 19.

In the Eastern Conference playoff operner, Houston Rockets downed New York Knickerbockers, 99-84, in Houston.

In the American Basketball Association, Kentucky Colonels took a 2-0 lead in the best-of-seven, quarter-final series with a 119-105 win over Memphis Sounds in Louisville.

Spring baseball crowds up

NEW YORK (UPI) — If spring training is any indication, the 1975 baseball season could be the most profitable ever for owners as this year's exhibition attendance jumped 31 per cent over last year.

Attendance was 820,757, an increase of 195,018 over the 625,739 in 1974.

Only Chicago Cubs had a drop for games played at home but this year they played only nine games as compared to 13 last season. The Cubs' average was up for the nine games by 569.

New York Yankees led the way in total attendance with 68,927 fans for their 16 home games in Ft. Lauderdale.

Bruins bombard Hawks Islanders trip Rangers

An over-powering attack by Boston Bruins and a rousing third-period comeback by New York Islanders highlighted the Stanley Cup games played on the eastern seaboard Tuesday night.

And in Madison Square Garden, where they had never won a game until Sunday night, the Islanders made their first playoff appearance a successful one by scoring the only three goals of the third period to upset New York Rangers, 3-2.

Both games were the first in best-of-three series which will qualify the winners for quarter-final play. Second games are scheduled Thursday in Chicago and Uniondale, home of the Islanders. And if a third game is necessary in either series it will be played Friday with Bruins and Rangers again the home clubs.

Bruins, who lost division honors this season, were at their best in demolishing the Hawks. They built a 7-0 lead against Tony Esposito, who finished schedule play with a Sunday shutout and appeared set for another starry playoff. He was replaced at 1:29 of the third period, just after his older brother got his second goal, by Michel Dumas.

Veteran John Bucyk opened the scoring in the ninth minute of play, but it was more than six minutes later before the Bruins took a firm grasp on the situation. With both clubs playing two men short, Carol Vadnais and Andre Savard scored goals nine seconds apart.

TheHawks won the part of the game remaining after Esposito's second goal, Dick Redmond spoiling Gilles Gilbert's shutout hopes at 4:20 and John Marks just beating the final buzzer to get the Hawks their second goal. In between, Boston's Esposito clicked on a play with Wayne Cashman and Dallas Smith to make it four times that he has scored three times in a Stanley Cup game.

Despite the score, Boston-coach Don Cherry gave high marks to Gilbert, citing him as the biggest reason the Bruins ended a winless streak at eight games.

"Gilbert was the difference," Cherry maintained. "They got four shots right off the bat, and I thought he held us in the game. Chicago controlled the first five minutes of play, then we got rolling."

Islanders, who have now beaten their cross-Island rivals three times in a row, appeared to have let the game get away when veterans Brad Park and Pete Stemkowski scored second-period goals to boost Rangers into a 2-0 lead with Ed Giacomin playing as if he was heading for a shutout.

The Islanders then set the stage for their comeback when they held Rangers out when Gerry Hart and Ralph Stewart drew penalties only 16 seconds apart early in the final 20 minutes.

Just after the Islander penalty-killers done their job, Ranger-defenceman Gilles Marotte drew a penalty and the Islanders struck quickly for a goal by Billy Harris which gave their attack new life.

Jean Potvin, following up to pick up the rebound off his shot and shooting again before Giacomin could recover, tied it up at 11:51. Then Clarke Gillies, a standout rookie from the Western Canada Hockey League, slipped between the Ranger defencemen and moved in for the game-winning shot.

Penguins and Kings earn slim victories

It came out the way final National Hockey League standings said it should, but it was close in Pittsburgh and Los Angeles as the Penguin and Kings took the lead in their best-of-three preliminary Stanley Cup series.

Penguins needed the last three goals of the game to slip by St. Louis Blues, 4-3, and the Kings required more than eight minutes of overtime before subduing Toronto Maple Leafs, 3-2.

The series resume Thursday in St. Louis and Toronto, and move back to their starting points should a third game be necessary.

Gary Unger set up first-period goals by Claude Larose and Wayne Merrick to give the Blues their first two-goal lead. Then he made it 3-1 by scoring in the first minute of the third period.

But the Blues couldn't hold on, and two of the younger Penguins combined to turn things around for their club. Chuck Arnason tied the score with goals six minutes apart, and rookie Pierre Larouche broke the tie less than three minutes from time.

Carr, who had only seven goals during schedule play, give the Kings a 2-1 lead which almost stood up. Ron Ellis connected from a scramble to get the 2-2 goal with only 90 seconds left.

It was the second time that the Leafs had come from behind. Blaine Stoughton scoring only 69 seconds later to match Bob Berry's first-period goal.

Pioneer fire truck donated

PORT ALBERNI — Old No. 4, a 1942 Ford fire truck from MacMillan Bloedel's former Sproat Lake division, has been given to Sproat Lake's volunteer fire department.

One man who knows the truck well is Bill Gray, the division's fire warden. He remembers it first arriving at Great Central Lake in 1952 when the mill there was owned by Bloedel Stewart and Welch.

"Since then the old girl has only put on 10,000 miles" says Bill, "and she still has good tread on the original set of tires." Mechanically too, the truck is still in "A-1 Shape".

Bill was fire chief at Great Central, and has been with the Company for 26 years. He trained the volunteer brigade, including a women's team of 12 members — once described as "the world's best looking fire department."

That was in the days when there were 90 homes at Great Central and Old No. 4 was used for forest fires as well as protecting the community.

It was fitted with a 700-gallon water tank and a 500-gallon per minute pump, and Bill Gray remembers when it could carry a crew of 12-15 men on a short run.

Another MacMillan Bloedel man who has followed the history of this pioneer fire truck is Herb Porter, night shift foreman at central services maintenance shop.

While serving with the Prince Albert volunteers at Terrace in the last war, he remembers the federal government buying the truck new for army service. Herb drove it then and remembers its registration day as August 29th, 1944.

He was not going to lose sight of "No. 4" for long, because in 1948 it was bought by the City of Port Alberni for its fire department. Herb came back to Alberni Valley in 1946, and later became a volunteeer fireman with the city — immediately recognizing the truck.

Tonnage down at port

NANAIMO — The Port of Nanaimo made $144,600 on total revenues of $1.7 million in 1974, the Nanaimo Harbor Commission reported Tuesday.

This compares with total revenues of $1.1 million and an excess of revenue over expenditures of $116,900 in 1973. However, the increased revenues in 1974 were on less export tonnage; the port exported 951,000 tons last year, compared with over one million tons in 1973.

During 1974, 196 deep-sea vessels entered the port to load or discharge cargoes, to enter or clear customs or to anchor awaiting berthage in other ports.

The largest export was 317.4 million board feet of lumber, followed by 27.7 million board feet of logs.

The port recently received provincial government support for development of Duke Point as a major forest products terminal. The province gave the harbor commission permission to use 30 acres of crown harbor bed, and negotiations are going on to acquire another 65 acres of land.

The new port, which could cost $26 million, will be able to accommodate ships of up to 60,000 tons deadweight, more than twice the size of vessels which can enter the existing berths in the inner harbor, the commission said.

Rejected offer revealed

DUNCAN — David Haywood, chairman of the board's salaries committee, has revealed the last offer rejected by CUPE Local 606 membership at the board's meeting Monday.

He said, "In a very short our position, and I think the time we may have to defend public should be aware of our offer to the union.

The local, representing School District 65 clerical staff and teacher's aides, rejected the school board's offer after the union negotiators last meeting with the government-appointed mediator Clarke Gilmour.

The board's offer would have given a 28.3 percent wage increase to all office categories, and a 40 percent increase to teacher's aides.

Besides a cost of living clause, which will be calculated three times a year, there would have been improvements in vacations, and 100 percent financing for health plans along with increases in group insurance and overtime rates.

The board's offer also included a $35 retroactive payment for each of the last four months of 1974.

Haywood said, "School District 65 has already signed a number of agreements with other unions, and the board is not commited to wage parity." He added, "The gap between the CUPE local and the two other districts was narrowed significantly by this offer."

Commenting on a possible strike, he said," the Cowichan district schools are in a worse situation than those in Victoria, where busing children to school isn't widespread."

Haywood said that the union could picket the school bus maintainence yard, cutting off transportation to the schools for a large number of students in the district.

Board chairman, Dr. Don Martin, said, "It's a shame to see that 10 per cent of the employees could close down a $10,000,000 a year operation so easily."

Scenic Long Beach expects 300,000 visitors

Pacific Rim National Park

Expansion needs more time

Canadian Press

The British Columbia government has hit a stumbling block which could delay development of Vancouver Island's Pacific Rim national park at least another six months.

Robert Ahrens, associate deputy minister of recreation and conservation, said the park boundaries cannot be defined until the government acquires 14,000 acres currently leased to two logging companies by the province.

The 14,000 acres, leased by MacMillan-Bloedel and B.C. Forest Products, are to be included in the park and the companies have indicated they want leases on similar land rahter than a cash settlement, Ahrens said.

The situation is a problem for the government because there is little available logging land in B.C. which is not already leased or privately-owned, he said.

The park's development is divided into three phases — the Long Beach area between Tofino and Ucluelet, Barkley Sound south of Ucluelet, and the 45-mile Lifesaving Trail between Pachena Bay and Port Renfrew.

Boundaries for the first two phases have been defined and the areas have been officially designated as parkland.

Under the original plans, the third phase was to include only a strip of land along the coast on which the Lifesaving Trail is situated. The government, however, under pressure from environmentalists, agreed to include a nearby area known as the Tsusiat, Squalicum and Hobitan Lakes watershed.

As a result the boundaries will have to be extended to include the leased land.

Ahrens said the boundaries were supposed to be set by April 1. The provincial government, which acquires the land on behalf of the federal government on a 50-50 cost sharing basis, has asked for a six-month extension on the deadline.

The federal government has not yet replied, he said.

In the first two phases, the government bought 250 private lots and 10 more are yet to be acquired, he said.

Jack Miller, a lands officer with the provincial parks branch, said the government must expropriate a total of nine privately-owned islands in the sound. Four have already been bought.

The remaining five are expected to be bought within a year, he said.

The land is expropriated under a provincial act which was passed to establish the park, he said, adding that most property acquisitions are the result of arm's-length negotiations with the owners.

Some land owners in the area, however, are reluctant to give up their land for any price and if a settlement can't be reached the minister is asked by the negotiators to enter into arbitration, Miller said.

None of the land owners has attempted to take the government to court over the expropriation, he added.

The federal parks branch announced Jan. 23 plans to spend a total of $3.2 million on the park, $1.7 million of which was for land acquisition at Long Beach and in Barkley Sound.

The funds included $369,000 to improve the 90-site Green Point campground at Long Beach but park superintendent Jack Holroyd says most campers will have to rely on a 500-site privately-owned campground expected to open this summer just outside the park's northern border.

Holroyd said an estimated 300,000 people visited the park last year, a total which could remain unchanged this year owing to rising fuel costs and the depressed American economy.

Driving on Long Beach will likely be prohibited this year because of safety and ecological reasons, he said.

The Long Beach area is approximately 20 miles long and 12 miles are sandy beach. That phase of the park is about 40,000 acres, he said.

Barkley Sound is about 10 square miles and is patrolled by the federal fisheries department and a 36-foot parks vessel. The branch is hoping to buy more patrol boats as the area becomes more popular he added.

Asked if the park branch anticipates a substantial increase in the number of boating accidents in the sound, which can be extremely dangerous, Holroyd said publications on the park will emphasize that the waters in Barkley Sound should be travelled only by experienced boaters.

The Broken island group in the sound will be left in its natural stage except for improvement to drinking water facilities on islands which have natural creeks, he said.

The parks branch will continue this summer to improve the Lifesaving Trail despite the recently-encountered problems, he added.

The entire park will include more than 75 miles of coastline and each of the three areas is accessible by separate routes.

COURTENAY — City council has approved in principle a proposal to create a community cultural centre here, but has told the Comox Valley Arts Alliance, sponsor of the idea, that such a project is obviously a regional board function.

Jed Irwin, co-ordinator, appeared before council Monday to propose that the city acquire the Bickle Building next to the Civic Theatre for a cultural centre.

The building would cost $150,000, and an additional $50,000 would be required to rebuild the interior.

Irwin said the building should be owned by the city or regional board to facilitate fund raising and to ensure continuity of operation.

Two thirds of the cost, he said, could be obtained through grants from the two senior levels of government.

Donations, interest-free bonds, grants or a mortgage were cited as most obvious possibilities for raising remainder of the money.

Mayor William Moore said approval in principle was as far as council could go and he stressed that such a centre was obviously a regional board function.

Ald. George Cochrane said the group would be unable to obtain any financing from the city this year, and he wondered who was going to maintain the centre.

Irwin told council that during the last eight months the alliance has demonstrated that Courtenay needs a community cultural centre. Such a centre, he said, should be large enought to encompass a very broad variety of programs and activities.

The alliance is now housed in a 2,200-square-foot building on McPhee Avenue, and Irwin said the space is inadequate for the demands the community is placing upon it.

The alliance provides gallery and exhibit space for local artists and for visiting art shows. There is also a sales gallery for local artists and craftsmen, a space for concerts, a coffee house, office space and numberous arts and crafts workshops.

Irwin suggested that with extra space there would be room for drama and set design, space for community meetings, and there would also be a greatly enlarged program of cultural activities all centered in one complex.

"The growht potential of this building, combined with the civic theatre and adjacent vacant lots, makes this a great opportunity to create a facility which would be the highlight of community cultural life, and which would be notable in the entire province," Irwin said.

"The growth potential of on income from concerts, workshops, gallery sales and with grants under the Local Initiatives Program, Canada Council, B.C. Cultural Fund and the Opportunities for Youth Program.

Irwin said that if the community establishes a cultural centre, there are long-term grants that would become available.

He suggested the land and building be tax-exempt to help reduce operating expenses.

Mayor, aldermen back own hefty increases

NANAIMO — City council has voted itself a pay increase which, it says, is in line with the rising cost of living.

Mayor Frank Ney will get a large increase over his 1974 salary and expenses, and aldermen will get an increase of about 60 per cent.

The mayor's salary will go from $5,280 last year, to $11,600, and his expenses will be covered by an allowance of $5,800, compare to the 1974 figure of $2,640, bringing his total remuneration this year to 17,400.

Sewer loan bylaw gets 3rd reading

DUNCAN—A bylaw to borrow $580,000 for improvements in the city sewer system has been given third reading by council.

The sewer improvement bylaw which now must be approved by the provincial inspector of municipalities before it can be adopted by the Duncan council, will enable the city to install a new main trunk line through Duncan to the city sewer lagoon.

Completion of the line which is projected to meet 20-year population needs has been set for Nov. 1.

The debt incurred for making these improvements will be paid off over a maximum term of 20 years.

47-car parking lot set for downtown

COURTENAY — Development of another parking lot in the downtown core has been provided for in this year's provisional budget, city council was told Monday.

When the area is blacktopped it will accommodate 47 cars, and two-houf parking will be instituted.

Council also learned this week that changes in the existing parking meter charges were discussed at a recent meeting of the traffic advisory committee. However, the matter was tabled pending further investigation by the committee.

Eighth Street intersection will get under way soon, and during the day, as this work is in progress, the highways department will provide more distinct markings of the truck route.

Also ratified was a suggestion by the committee that there be no parking on the north side of Fifth Street between Cliffe and Anderton avenues.

Stop signs will be installed on the south side of both Third and Fourth streets at the intersection with Cliffe Avenue.

It was also agreed that a street light should be installed near St. John's Anglican Church on Harmston to curtail vandalism in the area.

Marina break-in probed

Police were called to the Brechin Point Marina at opening time Tuesday morning. Manager Dutch Schwert said a large quantity of expensive fishing equipment had been taken by thieves who broke a window to gain entry. In addition, he said, quantities of cigarettes, confections, a pair of binoculars, a radio and other items were missing.

Schwert said that an estimate of the value of the stolen property would not be available until a complete inventory could be taken.

Burr House on market

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP) — Businessman Ray Corbett has offered to give the Burr House to anyone who will pay to move it from its original site and buy a lot to put it on. He bought the house for $500 after council approved a demolition permit for the famous house, built in the 1800s, which once housed actor Raymond Burr. Corbett has offered to sell a lot next to the house for $90,000 if someone wants to put the house there.

Malaspina College summer program

NANAIMO Malaspina College has completed plans for "its most ambitious ever summer program."

A wide range of courses has been scheduled covering a number of academic areas as well as art subjects and various aspects of outdoor recreation.

University transfer courses include English, history, mathematics and psychology, and arrangements have been made for people planning to upgrade their education through the provision of a basic skills advice service and a selection of related courses.

Four lectures on gambling, which will include general strategy and reference to the risks involved, are included among the general interest courses. This section also includes a theatre course leading up to a performance in late June, a creative dance workshop and five lectures and discussion on The Challenge of World Poverty.

Artists and others interested in working with their hands are especially well served, for the summer program features courses on leathercraft, painting, printmaking, raku firing, screen fabrics, textiles and senior ceramics.

The outdoor program for teenagers is equally attractive and includes a four day back packing trip to the Black Tusk area of Garibaldi Park, a cycle tour of the Gulf Islands, a four day excursion to the alpine region around Forbidden Plateau and a canoeing trip of similar length in the Nanaimo Lakes area.

The college has also arranged a series of lectures for anyone with an interest in salmon fishing for sport and speakers will include such well known experts as Dave Narver, Nori Nishio and Danny Lee, Nanaimo; Jim Gilbert, Brentwood; Charles White and Bruce Colgrave, Victoria; and Mike Cramond (The Province).

Band given sports grant

The funds are earmarked for a soccer field and softball diamond.

The grant was announced by Transport Minister Robert Strachan, MLA for Cowichan-Malahat.

Improvements okayed for Cowichan schools

DUNCAN — Approval has been given to spend $66,200 on site improvements at five Cowichan district schools.

The board of trustees approved the capital expense proposal, submitted by the principals and staff at the schools.

The Cowichan senior secondary school's grass hockey field will be levelled and seeded, as will an extension to the student court yard.

The area west of the new gymnasium at Alexander elementary school will be developed for a play area during the day and parking at night.

City renews booming lease

COURTENAY — Renewal of a log booming lease for Field Sawmills of Courtenay has been approved by council with a provision that the company make every effort to ensure the river is kept "in tip top shape." The lease covers about three acres of crown land on the Dyke Road.

Building up in Courtenay

COURTENAY — The total value of 21 building permits issued here last month amounted to $617,750. In the same month last year, 20 permits valued at $498,236 were issued. New residential development last month accounted for $493,125, with new commercial building estimated at $52,300.

Teachers face tighter leaves

DUNCAN — School trustees have set tighter guidelines on leaves of absence for teachers.

Cowichan School Board has asked that in future any request for a period of six months or more must be submitted before April 1.

Every application will be reviewed by the administrative committee and forwarded to the board.

The trustees, who have not set any time limit for leave of absence on compassionate grounds, are trying to alleviate the problem of hiring teachers at a late date.

● More stories, pictures on Page 17

By BRUCE LOWTHER
Colonist Reporter

A quiet two-week search for a young William Head fugitive was transformed Tuesday into a seven-hour Greater Victoria drama with a car chase, exchange of gunfire, abduction of hostages, massive manhunt — and a happy ending.

A mother and her young daugher were severly shaken and many others were in danger but only one person received as much as minor injuries in a harrowing day for more than 50 Victoria, Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt policemen and RCMP as well as numerous civilians.

As the day ended, Victoria police were studying possible abduction and robbery charges against Daniel Bradley Cain, 19, who will appear this morning in Victoria Provincial Court on a Colwood RCMP charge of escape and being unlawfully at large.

At the same time, 27-year-old Mrs. Diane Smith of 1116 Leonard in the Fairfield area and her daugher Emily, 3, was recovering from the most danger-filled part of the day. And taxi driver Ron Colbert, 62, of 3305 Linwood, had gone back to routine work.

It was in Colbert's Blue Bird taxi that Cain was arrested about 4:45 p.m. at the foot of Raynor in Victoria West — only minutes after Victoria detective Constable Douglas Richardson had issued an emotion-packed appeal to Cain to give himself up.

One sentence in the appeal gave much of the background to a day unrivalled in tension in Victoria since a late-September day in 1970 when another young man robbed a bank, shot two Victoria policemen, and took hostages on his way up the Saanich peninsula and on to the U.S. by boat.

Said Richardson: "I want you to know, Danny, since you left William Head we've talked to most of your friends and your family and we all agree: turn yourself in and we'll have medical treatment for you."

Cain was sentenced late in 1974 in Victoria to two years for break-ins and thefts and was due for release in 1976. But on the night of March 22, police said, he left the William Head institution in Metchosin.

Staff-Sgt. Angus Stewart, acting head of the Victoria police detective division, said Tuesday Cain was known as a drugs user before his sentence. Other sources said police had been seeking Cain for questioning about some of 11 small-business holdups in Victoria and Saanich since March 22.

At 10 a.m. Tuesday, Oak Bay Constable Robert Faith was off duty and shopping in Gordon's Sporting Goods, 1030 Hillside, when he saw a youth who looked like Cain buying a box of shotgun shells.

Faith followed the youth, saw him get into a car parked nearby and got the licence number. He wasn't able to get to his own car to follow but immediately phoned the number to Victoria headquarters.

The car had been stolen Monday night in Esquimalt, not far from the Victoria West area where the suspect was arrested.

At about 10:55 a.m., Victoria Constables Peter Talavs and Rick Mitchell saw the car going south on Douglas near Bay. A chase at speeds of up to 65 miles an hour began on Bay and continued on Cal-

150 B.C. children: No takers

By JIM HUME
Colonist Reporter

More than a thousand British Columbians have offered homes to Vietnam war orphans, but so far there are no adoption offers for 150 handicapped B.C. children.

Human Resources Minister Norman Levi made that announcement Tuesday as he pledged to continue to extend assistance but appealed for a cooling down of emotions.

Levi said it must always be remembered that "children are part of a family unit and only as a very last resort should they be removed from that family."

Levi reminded British Columbians that while their response to the plight of Indochinese war victims had been overwhelming "there are still 150 B.C. children, many of whom have severe handicaps, who are available for adoption by parents who feel they can cope with the extremely arduous task of raising these special children."

The minister said it was his hope that of the hundreds of families now offering homes to help children from overseas "there are some who will

It's Oscar II for sequel Godfather

It was the first time that a sequel to an Oscar-winning film (1972) had itself gone on to win Hollywood's top award.

Its producer-director-writer Francis Ford Coppola won three of the Oscars, and his father, Carmine Coppola, was awarded an Oscar for his score.

Gunman's wild-eyed entry started day's nightmare

By JON FERRY
Colonist Reporter

There are some things it's better that a three-year-old girl doesn't understand.

And one of these is being taken for a ride with mother by a wild, scared, gun-toting individual who bursts into the house while you're playing with your toys and starts yelling and smashing windows.

But that's what happened Tuesday to Emily Smith, a cute, red-haired, blue-eyed bundle of a girl, and her mother, Mrs. Diane Smith, 27, of 1116 Leonard.

But both Mrs. Smith and her husband, Robert, a provincial government clerk, said after the ordeal that Emily — who sat on her desperate abductor's lap during part of a wild car chase across Victoria — remained unaffected by the incident.

"No, she didn't really know what was happening," said a tired, hungry but otherwise unharmed Mrs. Smith as she prepared to eat a well-earned supper.

Shortly after 11 a.m. Emily was playing with her toys and Mrs. Smith was doing her washing when she heard sirens and a ruckus outside.

"I thought it was a fire, I heard sirens," she told the Colonist.

Just then a wild-looking young man toting a gun burst into the Smiths' kitchen and took mother and daughter hostage, yelling to police outside he'd kill both if need be.

Sadie, the Smiths' four-year-old part-collie was so scared she rushed underneath the livingroom couch.

Mrs. Smith said, sure, she was scared but so was the intruder who "started to cry in the kitchen he was so scared . . . he didn't know what to do."

In his frustration at seeing police guns pointed at every window, he became angry and started smashing pane after pane of glass — and ordered Mrs. Smith and Emily upstairs with him.

Mrs. Smith said she thought the police crowded too closely around the house, terrifying the desperate intruder still further.

"I think they should have backed off a bit more," she said.

Mrs. Smith said her main concern was "trying to be on his side because I didn't want to get hurt; I didn't want Emily to get hurt."

She said the man appeared to be "a nice sort of guy" although scared into desperation.

He said he was thirsty and Mrs. Smith — who didn't realize her mistake till afterwards — offered him some Southern Comfort.

He drank a fifth of a bottle, Smith said.

And Mrs. Smith said she made her second mistake when she told the intruder about her car, a 1968 Austin 1100.

The result was that shortly after noon Mrs. Smith and Emily were bundled into the small, dark green car — and a nightmare chase across town began.

With police cars in its rear mirror, the little Austin, pushed on by its driver, swerved all over the road and Mrs. Smith feared for her life in what she described as the

Quiet neighborhood 'was like a battlefield'

By HUBERT BEYER
Colonist Reporter

"Okay, you guys, get back, get back," a desperate voice shouted at police officers from inside the house.

"I'm going to phone you, do you hear?" another officer yelled in the direction of the house at 1116 Leonard.

The normally quiet residential Fairfield neighborhood looked more like a battlefield Tuesday afternoon.

Police cars had blocked most of the adjoining streets.

Policemen, both in uniform and civilian clothes, were crouching behind trees, walls, house corners, and parked cars, their guns trained on the house.

At this point, the massive police hunt was about two hours old.

An estimated 50 policemen from the Victoria, Saanich, Esquimalt, and RCMP forces in numerous cars, vans and two helicopters were involved in the operation.

Guns everywhere at hostage home

all policemen who had surrounded the house were ordered to withdraw.

"Get back to the next corner," they were told by one of the officers, and slowly, they retreated under the cover of trees and cars.

Suddenly, all was quiet. The only ones left near the house were a Colonist reporter and photographer who had escaped the sharp eye of the police and were hiding in a doorway, just across the street from the house.

The group crossed the street, walking slowly toward a parked car — a green Austin.

The car screeched away and the entire area exploded into a scene of hectic activity.

By WARREN CARAGATA
Colonist Reporter

When Cyn-Dee Nelson woke her mother up Tuesday morning screaming that there were "police all over the place," she was told she had been watching too much television.

Later, while the gunman was still in the Smith residence, Ms. Nelson and Cyn-Dee were allowed to return, where they sat on a couch listening to the man shouting and breaking windows upstairs.

"He sounded like he was nuts, and then he'd break some more windows — every window I looked out there was rifles pointing in — it was scary, I tell you."

After returning to her suite, Ms. Nelson loaded her rifle and cradled it across her lap as she heard, through the heating vents, the drama being played out above her.

"The rifle was loaded with more than one bullet and I would have used it too — when you're on your own, you need it to protect yourself — especially with nuts like that around.

"I was in here the whole bloody time. At least they could have left a cop with me," she complained.

Cabbie 'stopped and bailed out'

Ron Colbert had heard Greater Victoria police had a big manhunt on when he picked up a fare at about 4:30 Tuesday afternoon at 703 Esquimalt but he didn't connect his young, long-haired customer with the dramatic affair.

He also didn't think any more about them when his fare, sitting beside him, kept giving him conflicting instructions on the route.

"I said make up your mind where you want to go," said 10-year Blue Bird Cabs driver Colbert, 62, of 3305 Lindwood.

"Then I was coming down Raynor and I saw the gun . . . then I saw the police at the bottom (at Craigflower). He pulled the gun and had it in his lap about a foot away from me and he said there was police down there.

"I said where, I didn't see any around. He told me to drive around them and I said I couldn't. I figured well, I couldn't just sit there and I was taking a chance one way or the other.

"So I stopped and bailed out. I ducked around behind the rear bumper. The police didn't seem to have any trouble arresting him."

After picking up his fare at an apartment building, Colbert was given an address on Alderman and travelled on Esquimalt and Mary to Skinner. The cab would then have gone along Craigflower to Alderman but a couple of turns were ordered and it wound up on Raynor.

It was travelling through an area which had been thoroughly searched by dozens of policeman since the manhunt target was last reported near Victoria West Park at about 1:25 p.m. And the same massive force was still scouring the area, checking cabs among its many duties.

Daniel Hopkins, 333 Raynor, one of the neighborhood children who saw the last moments of the chase, said he saw three police cars behind the cab as it moved slowly down Raynor. He said the fare appeared to be holding a gun to Colbert's head.

One or two cars already were stationed at the foot of Raynor and another joined them, increasing the blockade, as the cab approached. A fourth made the cutoff complete and police jumped out with revolvers and a shotgun drawn. The chase was over.

"Everything happened so quick," Colbert said later.

It was true. By 6:15, or 1½ hours after his escape, Colbert was doing one of his regular daily chores — delivering special mail to the newsroom of the Colonist.

Rehash of old ideas at cost of $34,500

By LORRAINE ATHERTON
Colonist Reporter

The Capital Region's secret hospital planning report is a $34,500 rehash of previous studies.

It recommends construction of a new Victoria General in the McKenzie - Trans - Canada Highway area, and the gradual phasing out of "antiquated" Victoria General.

And the new hospital should be built "as soon as possible, meaning immediately," to relieve pressure on other hospitals, says the report, prepared by Ronald McQueen of Agnew, Peckham and Associates of Toronto.

The recommendations for alleviating Greater Victoria's chronic hospital bed shortage are similar to those in another Agnew, Peckham report commissioned by the region in 1968.

The latest report predicts the region's current bed shortage of 125 will increase to 276 in 1981 and 369 in 1986. To take up the slack, a 400-bed hospital, with possibilities for 600 beds, should be built west of Douglas.

The present Victoria General would be extensively renovated and reduced to 200 beds, about half its present capacity, and operated in conjunction with the new hospital. McQueen warned that the hospital must not continue to operate at its current size. "The buildings must be totally updated . . . or totally replaced."

Moves should be made immediately to include representatives of Saanich and the western community (Sooke-Colwood- Langford-Metchosin) on Victoria General Hospital's board and to obtain a site, 20 to 30 acres, for the new hospital, McQueen suggested.

Victoria General, former St. Joseph's would remain as a community hospital for the downtown area with "first-class accommodation" and ambulatory care services.

McQueen stressed that the two hospitals must be operated by the same board and with the same medical staff, because the old Victoria General could not provide a quality range of services on its own if reduced to 200 beds.

The regional hospital planning commission has refused to release the latest report to the public for reasons ranging from: "It would serve no useful purpose," to "we need more time to study it."

Speech therapists end treatments at Sooke

Sooke schoolchildren in need of a speech therapist will have to find transportation to the school board offices in future instead of getting treatment in school, the board has decided.

A therapist works in the district for 20 hours a week, but a great deal of teaching time is lost because of the time spent travelling between schools, therapist Lynn Robinson reported Tuesday.

"We had more and more children without any available transportation," she said.

"This arrangement of seeing children at school is not really satisfactory because the children are often not available due to school field trips or teachers professional days.

"A lot of the therapists time is wasted in travelling and the parents are not nearly as involved or interested."

Gati's job at stake in fight?

By JON FERRY
Colonist Reporter

Victoria Symphony Society directors will decide the future of colorful conductor Laszlo Gati at a meeting April 17.

But the apparent move by some directors to ensure that Gati goes after his contract expires June 1976 has been met by a strong pro-Gati lobby among members.

The lobby is headed by Nikola Pavelic, of 577 Ardmore Drive, on behalf of the Petitioner's Committee, a group of 99 symphony members who tried last year to hold a general membership meeting to air the controversy that has plagued the society.

Pavelic has sent a letter to the society's more than 1,000 members urging them to fill out a ballot and tell the directors whether they think Gati should remain conductor or not.

The letter claims that "Miss Ronahan (society president) and her supporters on the board are now planning to terminate Mr. Gati's contract with the society and to replace him with another conductor without giving the society's members the opportunity to express their opinion."

What also irks Pavelic's group is that the April 17 meeting will be closed — and that voting on Gati's continuance will be by simple majority and by secret ballot.

"It was determined that the decision would be by secret ballot, thus avoiding the necessity of individual board members having to declare themselves on a recorded vote."

However, board members contacted Tuesday maintained the vote on Gati's contract was merely a routine matter.

If they decided to dismiss Gati, 14 months' notice would have to be given, and this was why the special meeting was called before the next regular board meeting.

President Miss Madge Ronahan said a letter from the board would be sent to members in the near future.

But she refused to elaborate on the controversy. Was the symphony in financial trouble? "Isn't every symphony?" she replied.

Gati said he would likely have a statement to make within a few days.

Eight-years with the orchestra, Gati said it looked as though there was a move afoot to dislodge him but "I don't know exactly what it's all about."

He said he has never been "openly criticized" by the board and the symphony music was going better than ever.

CP sea era ends today

By JIM BRAHAN

The last step in the decline of Victoria's status as headquarters of the once-big fleet of the Canadian Pacific's coastal service will be taken about 8:30 a.m. today as the Princess Patricia leaves Esquimalt Harbor and heads for Vancouver.

Victoria shipwatchers can get their last glimpse of the white hulled pocket liner with her two red funnels as she steams past the Dallas Road waterfront after leaving Yarrows shipyard where she was spruced up for her Alaskan cruises starting May 15.

A Yarrows official said Tuesday it is unlikely the 6,000-ton ship will be back this way because she is to be based at CP's pier B-C at Vancouver an dany future refitting will most likely be done at Burrard shipyard in North Vancouver.

The 25-year-old vessel, sister ship to the Princess Marguerite recently bought by the B.C. government, is scheduled to make 20 trips this tourist season between Vancouver and Alaska.

The Patricia arrived in Victoria June 10, 1949 and in 1962 she underwent a $1 million conversion to an Alaskan cruise ship.

She began her Alaska cruising in 1963 and during the off-season her winter berth was at the CPR docks in Victoria's Inner Harbor. The docks and waterfront property was also recently purchased by the province.

The CPR ships have bulked large on the Victoria maritime scene since near the turn of the century and when the Patricia pulls out of sight this morning, as far as Victorians are concerned, her name can be put into history along with the former princesses including Kathleen, Elaine, Louise, Mary, Norah, Joan, Elizabeth and Adelaide.

The only princess still operating between Vancouver Island and the Lower Mainland is the Princess of Vancouver.
